SLAYER CRONIN FOUND GUILTY

FINAL JUDGMENT ON NEW DEALERS TO BE '36 VOTE

Issue Given to G.O.P. by Roosevelt.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 16.—[Special.]—With conservatively minded Republicans and Democrats joining in denunciation of the New Dealers' project to revise our form of government, the great struggle of 1936 for the presidency has begun. In that struggle the people will pass judgment on the New Deal.

The galvanizing of the Republican party into new life in the "Grass Roots" conference at Springfield, Ill., last week has changed the whole aspect of the battle. No longer may complacent Democrats expect President Roosevelt to win reëlection by default.

The G. O. P. which the Democrats so wishfully pronounced dead after the debacle of 1932 and its no less serious reverses in 1934 suddenly has burst its cerements and proceeded to go into action with a vigor that has startled the watchers at the tomb.

Fight Over Principles.

Evidently it is going to be a real fight over principles that will stir the American people to the depths and determine the character of our government and the course of our national development for years to come.

Not since the civil war has the country faced an issue more momentous. The issue, say the Republicans, will be the socialistic aspects of the New Deal and the centralization of government necessary to creation of the new economic and social order which constitutes the New Dealers' grand objective.

Paradoxically enough it was the President who rallied the Republicans into fighting form to oppose his reelection. There was, to begin with, the ground swell of reaction against the regimentation and experimentation of the New Deal.

Cause Made Common Interest.

This reaction produced the movement among midwestern Republicans to get together and make common cause against what they considered a menace to the welfare of the nation. Six thousand Republicans, selected as delegates by county committees, paid their own expenses to attend the Springfield meeting. Nothing like it had taken place since the issue of slavery produced the meetings in Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin that led to the formation of the Republican party 80 years ago.

Then two things happened that vindicated the rising opposition to the New Deal and supplied the Springfield conference with a definite, concrete issue on which to array the conservatively minded of both parties against the continuation of Mr. Roosevelt at the head of the government. In three unanimous decisions the Supreme court demolished the NRA, jolted the entire structure of the New Deal, found the Roosevelt administration guilty of violation of the constitution, and interposed a check upon the President's exercise of dictatorial power.

Find Arguments Justified.

Republicans and conservative Democrats who for months had criticized the administration on all of these grounds found their arguments justified by the findings of our highest tribunal. No more auspicious prelude could have been arranged for the Springfield gathering of Republicans to enunciate the opposition to the New Deal.

But as if this good fortune for the G. O. P. were not enough there came like manna from heaven an additional dispensation that not even the most optimistic Republican strategist would have had the audacity to expect.

The President assailed the Supreme court decision and proposed a change in the form of government which would curtail, if not snuff out completely, the sovereignty of the states and clothe the central government with authority over every business and occupation.

By amendment or otherwise, as he mysteriously hinted, the constitutional division of the governmental authority would be set aside in order to carry the New Deal into effect.

The reaction of the country to this proposal was another rebuff for the President. The proposition was received coldly by all elements of the population with the exception of the more ardent New Dealers and the officers of organized labor. And what gave the President pause, particularly, was the degree of frigidity manifested among the leaders of the Democratic party. The attitude of the southern Democrats alone made it evident that

CHINESE CHIEF SPURNS JAPAN'S ALLIANCE PLAN

Tokio Seeks to Oust Dictator Chiang.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, June 17 (Monday).—(AP)—Reuter's (British) news agency dispatches from Hongkong said a fierce artillery duel broke out early today between forts at Canton and two cruisers seeking to desert the Canton government.

The cruisers Haichi and Haishen were reported to have been spotted as they attempted to slip out to sea and were fired upon from the Bocatgris forts.

The rebels returned the fire and were first reported to have run the gamut successfully, but later reports said the ships apparently were caught in low water.

The two vessels deserted the Nanking government in 1933 and went over to the Canton command. Recently they had expressed dissatisfaction over pay.

SHANGHAI, June 14 [via air mail to Hongkong to avoid censor].—The refusal of Dictator Chiang Kai-shek to visit Tokio for discussion of the "fundamental problem of Sino-Japanese economic, financial, and military cooperation" is responsible for Japanese army leaders' declaration that Marshal Chiang must be overthrown, it has become known in Shanghai. The Japanese militarists seek a new government which is willing "to coöperate with Japan's program in far eastern world affairs."

While Marshal Chiang, strongest military and political figure of China, long has been familiar with the chief points of the Japanese military program, a definite invitation to the Chinese generalissimo to visit Tokio was delivered to him personally June 8 by Vice Admiral Gengo Hyakutake, commander of the Japanese third fleet, stationed in Chinese waters. The admiral visited Chiang's headquarters at Chengtu in western China.

Suppress News of Visit.

News of these developments was completely suppressed by Chinese papers, while references to Admiral Hyakutake's visit to Chiang were deleted from cables of foreign correspondents by censors stationed in Shanghai radio and cable offices, who obviously are under Japanese influence and intimidation.

Admiral Hyakutake explained to Marshal Chiang the seriousness of the situation in north China and accused Nanking authorities of procrastination while secretly trying to obtain help from America and Great Britain.

The admiral then declared the only way to settle the situation was for Chiang to visit Tokio.

The admiral stated that in event Chiang was willing to comply, Tokio would accord him a royal welcome similar to that recently given Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo, and that Japan was prepared to back Chiang financially and enter a military alliance consolidating the forces of the two nations, providing mutual assistance in event of war with a third party.

Requests More Time.

Marshal Chiang is reported to have replied:

"We are determined to seek with the fullest sincerity a solution of our complications with Japan, but the domestic situation in China makes the situation difficult, hence it is necessary that Japan give us time."

This request for more time apparently referred to the ultimatum which the Japanese Kwantung army presented to Gen. Ho Ying-chin, national government war minister, at Peiping, and which expired June 12.

The outcome of the Chengtu conversations is responsible for the Japanese army leaders' charges of Chiang's alleged insincerity and has been followed by Japan's efforts to induce other Chinese military leaders to join the move to oust Chiang. These include generals allegedly jealous of Chiang.

Prepares New Capital.

Marshal Chiang is aware of the intrigue, which explains his recent activities in Szechwan province, where he is taking advantage of the anti-Red drive to consolidate his political and military power.

It is reported that as a last extremity Chiang would withdraw from Nanking, and establish his capital at the inaccessible town of Sian, Shensi province, where new buildings recently were erected.

Federal Writ Causes Uproar Over Swindler

Jacob Berman, a federal prisoner who was found guilty of huge stock promotion swindles in Los Angeles following the collapse of the $60,000,000 Julian Petroleum corporation in 1926, will appear this morning in the United States District court here on a writ of habeas corpus.

Berman's appearance in a Chicago federal court resulted from a series of remarkable incidents which culminated Saturday night in his detention in the county jail, after being taken from a railroad train while on his way under guard from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., to the fortress on Alcatraz Island, off San Francisco.

Fights Return to California.

Berman's seven year sentence for using the mails to defraud expires Saturday night. His attorneys are seeking to prevent his being placed within the jurisdiction of Los Angeles county authorities, where he is under a state court sentence of three successive prison terms of 1 to 14 years each for stock swindles. Should Berman be released from a federal prison outside California, it was pointed out last night, he might successfully fight extradition to California.

In November, 1929, after a long court fight, Berman was sentenced to the federal penitentiary at McNeil's Island. His term began April 21, 1930, but he later was transferred for disciplinary reasons to Leavenworth, Kas. On a later plea that Chicago gangsters under sentence there forced him to pay extortion protection he was taken to Lewisburg and his sentence was shortened for good behavior.

Witness Against Asa Keyes.

Shortly after his federal conviction Berman was returned to Los Angeles as a state's witness in bribery cases connected with the collapse of his oil company. He testified against the late Asa Keyes, famous Los Angeles prosecutor, who was convicted and sent to prison for accepting bribes to ease up on the prosecution of Berman.

Superior Judge Marshall McComb of Los Angeles refused to let the state swindling charges against Berman be dropped in return for his evidence against Keyes. As a result, Berman was convicted on forgery charges, and three successive sentences of one to fourteen years each were imposed on him in the state court, to be served after completing his federal term.

With the expiration of his prison sentence imminent, Los Angeles authorities prevailed on federal officials to send Berman to Alcatraz, where they could nab him upon his release Saturday. Berman, accordingly, was en route there in custody of two prison guards.

His attorneys, however, seeking to prevent this move, flew here from Washington, obtained a writ of habeas corpus, returnable today, from Federal Judge John C. Knox of New York, who had been presiding here at the Insull trial. Judge Knox also deputized the attorneys as deputy marshals to serve the writ.

When they confronted the prison guards with the court papers at the Northwestern depot Saturday night, the prison guards at first refused to recognize the writ, and there was a rumpus which caused city police to be sent to the station in the belief an effort was being made to rescue a federal prisoner. The lawyer-deputies won their point, and Berman was placed in the county jail until today.

Berman's attorneys, it was understood, maintain he is being taken to California against his will to testify as a state's witness in another case.

DAY'S RAIN DOUBLES JUNE TOTAL; FALL IS HEAVY IN MIDWEST

The heaviest rains of the month drenched Chicago yesterday afternoon and evening, and the weather bureau reported that the precipitation for the 24 hours ending at 8 o'clock last night was heavier than the total for the first 15 days of the month.

From the first of June until 8 p. m. Saturday Chicago had only .55 of an inch of rainfall. In the next 24 hours .78 of an inch fell. The rain depressed the mercury from its maximum of 82 degrees at 3 p. m. to 73 degrees at 4 p. m. Skies are expected to clear by today, however, but with the temperature much cooler than yesterday.

Chicago was not alone in experiencing rainfall. A low pressure area over the central and southern plains region and the upper Mississippi-Missouri valley and Great Lakes region caused downpours of varying intensity. Wichita, Kas., bordering the "dust belt," experienced 2.57 inches of rain, while .66 of an inch fell at North Platte, Neb.

In Chicago several accidents were attributed to the thunderstorms. Off Grant park a squall capsized the 18 foot sloop of Ernest Geipel, 3427 South Francisco avenue, and Wallace Leach, 3517 South Francisco avenue. The two were rescued by another boat.

Charles Solton, 60 years old, 1606 South Halsted street, sought shelter from the rain under a metal canopy before the Premier hotel, 666 Madison street. The canopy fell, fracturing Solton's skull and dislocating his arm.

Firecracker in a Bottle Costs Boy His Left Eye

Jack Murray, 11 years old, 6631 Kimbark avenue, was looking forward to Fourth of July yesterday and playing with firecrackers near his home. He lighted one and placed it in a milk bottle. It burst the bottle, blowing bits of glass into his face. At the Englewood hospital it was said the boy would lose the sight of his left eye.

Try to Collect Fees Despite Death of NRA

The NRA is dead, but the assessment of industry under codes goes on despite the decision of the United States Supreme court. The continued efforts of at least one code authority, the Graphic Arts code, to collect assessments from printing establishments were revealed yesterday in correspondence received by E. C. Zimmerman, president of Zimmerman Brothers & Co., 4020 South Michigan avenue.

Under date of June 13, more than two weeks after the Supreme court decision on May 27, Mr. Zimmerman received a bill from the Zone 17 administrative agency, the local code authority for his business, requesting the payment of $6.60 representing "total assessment for month ending June 30, 1935." The assessment is based upon an estimated annual pay roll of $12,000, a figure which is disputed by Mr. Zimmerman.

Threatens Legal Action.

The "notice of contribution due" issued by Theodore Regensteiner, president of the Chicago Graphic Arts Federation, Inc., 20 North Wacker drive, includes the warning that failure to pay "makes you liable to appropriate legal proceedings."

In a form letter accompanying the assessment notices, Mr. Regensteiner called attention to the Supreme court decision and suggested a readjustment to fit the new conditions created by the outlawing of NRA. A form of industrial espionage also was suggested in the letter.

"I urge you to continue functioning as near as possible according to the provisions of the Graphic Arts code," Mr. Regensteiner wrote. "I refer particularly to the labor provisions of our former code dealing with hours and wages.

Urges Report on Others.

"Don't pay attention to street gossip or rumors regarding what any plants are doing regarding changes in hours or wages. Advise us of these rumors for check-up purposes.

"I urge each establishment to cooperate financially to the extent of sending in a check for the balance showing on the invoice in order that our financial affairs, both national and local, may be worked out during the coming month."

Mr. Zimmerman rejected his first impulse to relegate the assessment notice to the waste basket and declared that he would save it as a valuable museum piece to file with his other Americana.

Confederate Veteran, 107, Dies; 212 Descendants

Walnut Ridge, Ark., June 16.—[Special.]—Jasper Risenhoover, 107 years old, died today. He was a veteran of four years' service in the confederate army. He is survived by nine sons and daughters, and 203 grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Bitter at Use of Testimony by Young Son

Thomas Cronin, 27 years old, president of the Coal Drivers, Helpers and Handlers' union, local No. 704, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in Judge E. I. Frankhauser's Criminal court yesterday morning in the slaying of William Bahnfieth. The jury, which had been out more than eighteen hours, disregarded the unwritten law plea made by the union official's attorneys.

Bahnfieth, 40 years old, an oil salesman, who had been separated from his wife, was shot to death on April 5 in Cronin's home at 4856 North Kenneth avenue. The shooting followed a quarrel in which Cronin charged that the oil salesman had been more than friendly with his wife, Mae.

The manslaughter verdict carries a penalty of one to fourteen years in the penitentiary. Judge Frankhauser deferred passing sentence until June 25, when a motion for a new trial will be heard.

The jury retired shortly after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon to consider its verdict and was locked up for the night when no verdict was reached at 9:30 p. m.

Convenes Court for Verdict.

Judge Frankhauser convened court at 10 a. m. yesterday for the purpose of receiving the verdict, and about forty-five minutes later the jurors announced that they had reached an agreement. In court at the time were the defendant's father, Thomas, and two sisters, Mrs. Lorraine Lindquist and Mrs. Lillian Birgel, Defense Attorney Cameron Latter and Prosecutor Morris G. Meyers. Cronin's wife and son, Thomas Jr., 8 years old, who testified against him at the trial, were not in court at the time and neither was the widow of Bahnfieth.

After the verdict had been read Louis W. Meckleburg, jury foreman, said that the jurors had agreed not to discuss the steps in their deliberations. Cronin, who has been in custody since the shooting, was returned to the county jail. He was bitter over the fact that his son was permitted to testify about the shooting.

"He was coached," the father asserted. "No kid could remember exact dates that he testified to on the stand. He didn't look at me when he was testifying."

Boy Tells of Shooting.

On the witness stand Thomas Jr. testified that he first saw Bahnfieth on Jan. 29, 1933, when he and his mother were living at the Eleanor hotel, where Bahnfieth had an apartment.

His son also gave an account of the shooting which the defendant believed damaging to his defense.

Mrs. Cronin, when notified later of the verdict, declared that she was satisfied with the jury's finding. "I believe that justice has been done," she asserted. She said that she would hunt work today that she might provide for her son. He will start for a boys' camp in Michigan today.

Leo Mazaikas, 17 years old, 5407 South Nottingham avenue, was bitten on the lower lip by the family dog on May 18. He immediately began the full course of Pasteur treatments, but on Saturday he died of rabies.

SOLDIERS GUARD OMAHA; STRIKE VIOLENCE ENDS

Governor Demands Arbitration.

BULLETIN.

Omaha, Neb., June 17 (Monday).—(AP)—The second victim of the Omaha street car strike rioting died early today. He was Dewey R. McCoy, 35 years old, wounded by police Friday night.

Omaha, Neb., June 16.—(AP)—Gov. R. L. Cochran of Nebraska, military dictator of Omaha, tonight ordered arbitration of the street car strike that had brought the death of one man and injury to more than 150 others in the three bloody riots in the last week.

The governor, meeting with representatives of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railway company, representatives of the central labor union, and representatives of the striking organized employés, delivered an ultimatum directing that arbitration be launched immediately.

Labor Leaders Accept.

The labor leaders accepted and Leo Bozell, a director who represented the company, agreed to place the matter before the board of directors at a meeting to be held early tomorrow.

Gov. Cochran delivered his ultimatum within five hours after he had landed here in a Missouri National Guard plane that had been placed at his service following his flight from Gulfport, Miss., where he was attending a governors' conference when the Nebraska National Guard combat force of 1,800 men was ordered into the city and martial law proclaimed.

In the event the strikers and the company cannot agree on a third neutral member of the three man arbitration board proposed by Gov. Cochran the governor said he would make the appointment.

Orders Guards from Cars.

Gov. Cochran ordered that the company and the strikers name their representatives of the board by 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The governor also ordered all guards employed by the tram company from the cars and decreed that all paid organizers must cease their activity.

The governor issued a formal statement containing these words: "If either party declines to proceed upon the above basis it must be responsible to the military authorities for obstructing the return of normal peaceful activities in Omaha."

Cochran insisted the arbitration agreement be effective for at least one year and hinted his military authority might be invoked to enforce the agreement during that time.

"If either party," the statement said, "in the future fails to observe the conditions set down by the board of arbitration and so is responsible for a return of conditions which will again require military law it must take the full responsibility."

Warns Against Violations.

Even before the governor's direct orders Adjt. Gen. H. J. Paul, commanding the militiamen who have maintained military order in the city, expressed the opinion that immediate arbitration is the only hope of disposing of the problem.

Adjt. Gen. Paul declared that there is little hope of his troops evacuating the city until the strike is ended. At the same time came the word that Paul himself seems the most likely candidate for the impartial member of the arbitration board.

This word came on the heels of a statement issued by the commander of the Guardsmen, in which he said:

"I am not here to represent the street car company or the strikers, I am not seeking conferences with either, but I am willing to listen to any one who asks for a conference."

Assembly Session May Be Needed.

The general came out of an hour long conference with his staff officers to estimate the occupation might last three weeks and cost between $100,000 and $500,000. He suggested a special session of the legislature may be needed to finance the expedition.

Meanwhile Paul issued orders to keep his troops in quarters lest any demonstration of strength might be considered an invitation by rioters to pick a fight. Five hundred Guardsmen were assigned to the south Omaha district, where street fights Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights caused one death and injuries to more than 150 persons.

No guard or picket lines were established, however, and Paul said the battalion was sent to south Omaha only because of available quarters there.

Paul issued warnings that a military commission will try all cases of persons charged with inciting riots or making inflammatory speeches. Beer taverns and liquor establishments were ordered closed from 6 p. m. until 8 a. m. and assemblages on the streets and in the parks were banned.

Reinforcing his attitude of impartiality, Paul said he was "not interested" in anything that occurred before last night's military occupation and no one connected with prior riots would be disturbed if he remained peaceful in the future.

Acting Gov. Walter H. Jurgensen issued the martial law proclamation yesterday after a long distance telephone conversation with Gov. Cochran. Jurgensen, however, advised clearing the trams off the streets. After stopping at dark last night the street cars resumed running today.

The city was extremely quiet today, accepting the first martial law in its history in a matter of fact way. In south Omaha, where thousands massed last night in carnival mood to watch the arrival of the first Guardsmen, the streets were almost deserted.

STRIKE IS SETTLED

Freeport, Ill., June 16.—(AP)—The strike at the Stover Manufacturing and Engine company plant, which Friday brought out the National Guards after six men were injured in a clash with deputy sheriffs, was ended tonight.

Conferees, including Gov. Henry Horner, announced that both sides had accepted proposals for a 5 per cent wage increase, effective until May 1, 1936, but the way was left open for a readjustment on Sept. 1 of this year. It was also agreed that the 200 Guardsmen patroling the city will be withdrawn in the morning.

A strikers' demand for recognition of a new machinists and molders' union was waived.

The walkout began May 7, with union leaders announcing 400 men had withdrawn, as strikers demanded restoration of wage cuts totaling 20 per cent which had been made since 1933. A recent attempt to compromise on a 10 per cent restoration failed.

ONE STEP APPROVED

Toledo, O., June 16.—(AP)—A plan for arbitrating the Toledo Edison company strike gained the first step of approval tonight.

The plan was submitted by Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, in a meeting with the electrical workers' union wage committee of five. McGrady himself would serve as arbitrator in the first negotiations and then would be supplanted by a committee of three.

Oliver S. Myers, business agent of the union, announced he would recommend approval of the arbitration plan.

AGREE TO TRUCE

Washington, D. C., June 16.—(AP)—The United Mine workers reported today that all soft coal operators had agreed to President Roosevelt's strike truce.

This agreement to continue present wages, hours and working conditions through June 30 removed the last possibility of any walkout tomorrow.

Several producing districts did not send representatives to the joint wage conference yesterday which ratified the contract extension Mr. Roosevelt proposed to avert the nation wide strike originally set for midnight tonight. Absence of these representatives gave rise to reports that scattered strikes might result.

The union canvassed operators in these districts, however, and reported them willing to abide by the President's proposal.

GIRL KILLED AS AUTO TRIES TO PASS ANOTHER

Machines Sidewipe in South Side Accident.

Miss Ann Villanova, 23 years old, 404 East 72d street, was killed yesterday morning and William P. Louscher, 24 years old, 11817 Wallace street, was injured seriously when the automobile in which they were riding with four other young persons sideswiped another car and overturned at Torrence avenue and 127th street.

Louscher, driver of the car, told the police he had tried several times to pass an automobile driven by Ralph Hicks, 24 years old, 8035 Dante avenue, but that Hicks always speeded up to attempt to prevent him. The accident occurred, police said, when Louscher passed the other car on the left side and apparently cut in too sharply. Both cars were upset.

Held for Wrong License.

Hicks was held when it was found the license borne by his automobile had been issued for another car.

A compilation by the Associated Press showed that week-end motor accidents in the United States cost at least 65 lives.

Miss Villanova's death and two others increased the 1935 motor death toll in Cook county to 409. At 4 p. m. yesterday 329 had been killed in trafic accidents within the Chicago city limits and 6,960 injured. The other death yesterday:

William Jutzi, 35 years old, 5343 South Mozart street. Died in St. Luke's hospital of injuries incurred March 9 when his automobile collided with another at 59th street and California avenue. The five were riding in a car which was struck by a westbound Michigan Central train on the Saginaw-Bay City branch line at a crossing near Richville, in Tuscola county.

Coroner Lee Huston of Caro said no one saw the crash. He quoted members of the train crew as saying the locomotive pilot caught the rear of the automobile, in which the family party was driving to Bay City.

CATHOLICS PLEAD WITH ROTARIANS IN MEXICO CITY

Visitors Save Paraders from Police.

MEXICO CITY, June 16.—(AP)—More than 15,000 Catholics paraded unmolested past the national palace today while their speakers attacked the government, demanding religious liberty.

There was only one incident. A youth shouted "Death to President Cardenas!" and was arrested.

Catholic orators, speaking in front of the palace of fine arts, addressed themselves to visiting Rotarians here to attend the annual international convention, asserting:

"If you were not here we could not parade. We want you to know we are fighting for religious liberty and liberty of conscience."

Visitors Nervous.

Some Rotarians were noticeably nervous and the question was frequently asked among them, "Will there be a revolution?"

Most of them had been unaware of political developments of the last few days which saw the eight year reign of Plutarco Elias Calles as undisputed dictator of Mexican politics apparently ended and the government face even farther to the left under the leadership of President Lazaro Cardenas.

Talking in English, several of the Catholic speakers thanked the Rotarians for coming here. Many of the visitors applauded the speeches.

Show Dislike for U. S. Envoy.

A majority of those in the parade carried banners denouncing Socialistic education and demanding reopening of the churches. One banner read: "We are friends of the American people but not of Daniels," referring to Josephus Daniels, United States ambassador to Mexico.

Although the Catholics lacked a permit to parade, police were conspicuously absent and did not attempt to interfere. After marching to Buena Vista station, the demonstrators dispersed in an orderly fashion, shouting "Viva Cristo Rey" [Long Live Christ the King].

Calles Power Vanishes.

Promised the whole hearted support of workers and politicians and counting on the army, the youngest president in Mexico's history appeared to be in an invincible position.

Calles, Mexico's "strong man," opposed Cardenas' economic policies, only to find his strength apparently has suddenly disappeared.

The president was expected to form a cabinet tomorrow to succeed the one he forced to resign in order that the government could carry out its program unhampered by opposition within.

Although the president received thousands of messages of congratulations, Calles, whose strength only four days ago seemed unlimited, remained in virtual solitude at Cuernavaca, visited only by a few friends.

CLARA PHILLIPS ASKS WORLD TO LET HER BE FORGOTTEN WOMAN

Tehachapi, Cal., June 16.—[Special.]—Clara Phillips, Los Angeles murderess, having packed and repacked bundles and suitcases tonight, preparatory to her release on parole tomorrow, mused as she answered questions put to her in the state women's prison sitting room and said: "I wonder if I'll find things out there as sweet as they seem they ought to be."

The former "Main Street" showgirl, who served twelve years and fifteen days of a thirty year sentence for slaying Alberta Meadows, whom she believed infatuated with her husband, and who escaped the old county jail to be brought back from Honduras, told questioners:

"I have been through a Gethsemane. Now that I may have back my name instead of a number, I want to be the forgotten woman. I ask only to be let alone that I may work out my own destiny and try to justify my existence."

Clara Phillips is 37 years old. Armour Phillips, for whose affections she committed murder in 1922, never obtained a divorce from her, so far as she knows, but she does not know where Phillips is.

HOLLYWOOD GIRL DRUGGED, RAPED; DIES IN HOSPITAL

Hollywood, Cal., June 16.—(AP)—An attractive unidentified girl, who physicians said apparently had been drugged and raped, died in a hospital here tonight several hours after she was found unconscious in a park in the heart of Hollywood.

Physicians informed the coroner's office that she was between 15 and 17 years old. The girl was found unconscious reclining on a bench in Valentino park.

The girl was about 5 feet tall, weighed about 100 pounds, and was neatly dressed. She had blue eyes, light brown hair, and wore a yellow silk dress, brown lether jacket, gray and black pumps, and a metal finger ring and wrist watch.

Boy, 12, Shot at Target Practice by Brother, 15

Frank Vina, 12 years old, 5247 Twenty-fourth place, Cicero, was shot in the chest and wounded seriously yesterday afternoon while he and his brother Rudy, 15 years old, were at target practice at the rear of their home. The boy stepped in front of the target just as his brother fired, the police were told. John Vina, a janitor, father of the boys, said he had given the elder boy the .22 caliber rifle as a present.

More than 3,000 Chicagoans of Greek descent attended a ball in the Hotel Sherman last night sponsored by the order of Ahepa, which will hold its 12th annual national convention here Aug. 18. STATES WARNED TO KEEP POWER IN OWN BORDERS

More than forty delegates, representing 22 states, attending a meeting of the planning board of the Council of State Governments at the Stevens hotel yesterday, were told that through the coöperation of states, centralization of government in Washington can be effectually prevented.

The board meeting of the council, which has headquarters at 850 East 58th street here, was called to consider the problems thrown back upon the states as the result of Supreme court decision on the NRA and to discuss liquor and related problems.

Prof. Francis W. Coker of Yale university, president of the American Political Science association, declared that the states should zealously guard their sovereign powers.

The meeting which was called by Henry W. Toll of Denver, Colo., executive director of the council, will end its three day session today.

COMMUNIST SPY RING OF CHINESE GIRLS FACE DEATH

FOOCHOW, China, June 17 [Monday].—(AP)—Military authorities at Huichang informed the local garrison today that a group of girls, arrested as members of a communist spy ring, had been court martialed and "all confessed guilt."

Chinese circles said the girls had a fair chance to escape with their lives, but pointed out "sex and beauty have not always in China stayed the executioner's ax or the firing squad." Huichang authorities were reported deliberating the girls' fate.

FIVE MUSICIANS STAND IN BOAT; 2 DIE, 3 SAVED

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 16.—(AP)—Five musicians stood up in a boat today to play for other members of a Brooklyn social club who were on an outing at Jamaica bay. The rowboat overturned.

Henry Cataldo, 26, and Albert Delissio, 34, drowned. Margo Delissio, brother of Albert, and Joseph Desimone swam the 60 feet to shore.

Dominick Desimone, brother of Joseph, was rescued by three police officers who, doing pier duty, dove into the waters at the first cries for help.

AIR LINE EMPLOYS EXPERT ON NEW WEATHER PLAN

American Airlines announced yesterday the inauguration of a new weather forecasting service with the engagement of an expert of the recently developed "air mass analysis" or polar front system of meteorological observation.

Dr. Irving P. Krick, assistant professor of meteorology at the Daniel Guggenheim graduate school of aeronautics at the California Institute of Technology, and ten assistants will supervise and conduct a study of air mass analysis for the airlines, according to the announcement of C. R. Smith, president. Work will begin at once. Dr. Krick is now in Chicago.

"Air mass analysis, simply put, is based on two things, one the 'air mass,' the other, the 'front,'" according to Dr. Krick. "Air masses are the large uniform air currents which originate in polar or tropical regions. Air mass fronts are those battle lines which form when two distinct air masses meet."

MUSSOLINI'S SPY SYSTEM CRUSHES GROWING UNREST

Cows 42 Million Italians as He Pushes War.

Mr. Darrah, Rome correspondent of The Tribune for seven years, was expelled from Italy on June 12 because some of his dispatches were objectionable to the Fascist government.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 16.—Under Premier Mussolini's dictatorship 42,000,000 Italians are drilled into uniformity, cowed into submission and gagged into silence. The machinery for oppression is so widely and effectively organized that there can be for a moment no organized resistance to Mussolini's edicts. Arturo Bocchini, head of Mussolini's police, is the most powerful man in Italy after Il Duce himself.

Mussolini's police system has been praised as the most perfect in Europe. It and the Fascist militia is the principal prop of his government.

Bocchini's men are everywhere. They pry into every aspect of existence in Italy and every corner of activity. Italians fear to talk in public. O. V. R. A. [secret police] agents are everywhere. Any waiter may be a member of this organization. If he takes a piece of information over to the police on what he has heard or seen he can get a little extra money for it.

Imprisoned for Indiscreet Comment.

Suppose an Italian makes some comment about the military preparations or about the men coming back from Africa with tropical diseases. He will be arrested and summarily fined or imprisoned, not by a regular court but by the Fascist prefect.

For instance, in the newspaper Corriere della Sera of Milan, under date of June 14, it was related that "the prefect of Polisella gave a good lesson to two gossipers, Alfredo Tridoli, 40 years old, and Rodomente Canella, 48 years old, for saying a Black Shirt militia man named Schinaglia had died of disease contracted in East Africa. The prefect sent Tridoli to jail for twenty days, and fined Canella 25."

This is just a simple incident among many which makes the Italians watch their words when they sit in their cafés, for the ears of the police and spies are everywhere.

Send Anti-Fascists to Africa.

Arrests have recently been made on a wide scale in Lombardy and Piedmont of persons accused of anti-Fascism. The islands and prisons are so full of political prisoners that, as an economic measure, many have been released if they would go to East Africa as laborers. Reports circulate in Italy that many anti-Fascists have also been forcibly sent to East Africa as laborers.

Reports also circulate that workers are desperate under the hot tropical sun of the Eritrea desert and that when they get the opportunity they try to escape to Italy or elsewhere, and that soldiers have had to be placed over them. I cannot confirm these reports.

In southern Italy recently there were riots in towns in Apulia and Campania which had to be put down with force and some casualties were suffered on both sides. The riots were said to have been the result of the refusal of the villagers and peasants to pay taxes.

Resist Mobilization in Tyrol.

Since early in January the Fascists have been having trouble in Bolzano and Merano and what is now the Italian Tyrol. There was resistance against mobilization among German youths. I have seen letters from that region written by relatives to people in other parts of Italy saying:

"Nearly all the boys are in jail." "So and So is in a desperate plight because Hans has been arrested and she has no money."

The Fascists and police have recently removed municipal officials of Merano and forced the removal of the busts of all former Austrian mayors from the Merano city hall.

Conscripts Mutilate Selves.

Reports circulate widely in Italy [I mean that I have heard them several times from different persons and in different places] that in Sicily especially and also in southern Italy youths called up for service smash their thumbs and inflict other injuries on themselves so as to be unfit for duty.

Premier Mussolini's press bureau is now putting out accounts of how much money laborers, who have been sent to Africa are making. A couple of days ago the well gauged Fascist press printed news that workers in Eritrea had sent back 3½ million lire [currently about $238,750] during the month of May.

The press also seeks to make the Italian people at home believe that gold nuggets are lying around loose in Ethiopia.

Alongside the reports that Italian laborers are prosperous and contented and bearing up under the tropical sun has come the announcement from the Egyptian and Dutch governments that they would not permit the Italians to recruit Egyptian and Javanese laborers for road work in Eritrea, which Italy had requested, ostensibly because their resistance to insolation is greater than that of the Italians.

I have been told that great disorder and confusion exists in the mobilization camps in Italy and that military authorities themselves are not satisfied at the haste with which they are being rushed off to Eritrea, holding that the campaign should have been prepared over a longer period. A person in an unimpeachable position to know told me that he had seen signs in Sardinia written on walls saying:

"Abasso la guerra," which means: Down with the war.

BOULEVARD TORN UP TO BUILD SUBWAY

Looking west on Oak street from Drake hotel yesterday as work progressed in building of subway under Michigan avenue to Oak street beach. A temporary detour of southbound Michigan avenue trafic was put into effect, while northbound trafic was routed over temporary wooden bridge.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Start Trafic Detour

A temporary detour of southbound Michigan avenue trafic around the Oak street intersection was put into effect yesterday morning because a pedestrian tunnel and comfort station are being built under the street to serve Oak street beach.

Yesterday morning at 6 o'clock workmen began tearing up the street. Engineers expected that within nine days the work will have progressed to the stage where the pavement may be replaced and regular trafic resumed. The contractor has an agreement with the Chicago park district that he will be penalized $25 for each hour that the street is torn up over a 200 hour period and will receive a bonus of the same amount for each hour by which he beats the 200 hour deadline in replacing the surface of the avenue.

Southbound trafic is rerouted into Dearborn street from Lincoln park and is directed back into Michigan avenue at Delaware place. Between the park and Delaware place Dearborn is made a one way street and no parking is permitted. Northbound trafic continues in Michigan avenue as usual.

RIVER DRAGGED IN SEARCH FOR MISSING WOMAN

Coast guardsmen yesterday were dragging the river in the vicinity of the La Salle street bridge for the body of Miss Hazel Ruth Atherton, 40 years old, a tavern waitress, who is believed to have leaped into the water there. The woman's coat, hat, and purse were found by the bridge tender yesterday morning on the bridge. A card bearing the name of Al Royce, 350 North State street, was found in the purse and police learned that Royce, a former vaudeville actor, lived there with his wife.

The police went to Miss Atherton's room at 606 North Clark street, where they found Royce asleep. He said he met Miss Atherton a few weeks ago and had been seeing her since then several times each week. He visited her room Saturday night and fell asleep there, he said, when she did not arrive.

Robbed; Can't Speak of It; Hat, $17, False Teeth Gone

Desk Sergeant Steve Grady at the Des Plaines street station had trouble yesterday in determining the nature of the complaint which Harry Anderson, 2704 Mildred street, a salesman, wished to file. Eventually the sergeant learned that Anderson had been "jack-rolled" at Des Plaines and Lake streets by robbers who took $17, his straw hat, and his false teeth.

BURGHERS KICK ON BARELEGGED YONKERS WOMEN

Yonkers, N. Y., June 16.—(AP)—Five young women, handed summonses today for appearing on the streets of Yonkers in shorts, will be treated to the sight of themselves as others see them—in the movies.

The women were ordered into court tomorrow on complaint of Ald. William Slater, who said he had been besieged by objections of burghers at having their Sunday afternoon veranda gazing monopolized by young women in bare legs sauntering about the streets.

Ald. Slater said he looked up the ordinances and found one which provides a fine for appearance on the streets of Yonkers "in scanty attire."

Lest they should appear in court tomorrow still wearing their shorts, it was thought best to present only photographic evidence of their "scanty attire."

So the police department called in a movie camera, and amid interested policemen and onlookers the five paraded to and fro as the camera whirred. Then they were permitted to go home.

CHICAGO COLORED PEOPLE PROTEST ITALIAN TYRANNY

Massmeeting Sends a Defy to Mussolini.

An enthusiastic audience of Chicago's south side colored people jammed the Grand boulevard hall at 4654 South Park way yesterday afternoon to protest against Italian aggression in Ethiopia. Speakers declared that, if transportation were available, a million American colored men would be ready to join in the defense of Ethiopia against Italian imperialism.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Negro World alliance as a prelude to a parade which will be held next Sunday as a protest against Italy's African expansion at the expense of an ancient free nation. Plans for the parade were completed at the massmeeting yesterday. Only the size of the hall and a last minute rain storm limited the audience.

Attack Duce from Pulpit.

In newspapers for Negro readers and from the pulpit vitriolic attacks have been made upon Mussolini in the Chicago colored district.

"We are a peace loving race," the Rev. James Webb, chaplain general of the alliance, said. "Our people in Ethiopia and in Liberia desire only to live in peace. We protest the threatened invasion of the land of our brethren by the Italian government."

Send Protest to Duce.

Other speakers were Frank Lynch, Capt. Timothy Dent, and Robert L. Ephraim, international president general of the alliance. Cablegrams to Mussolini protesting Italian aggression, and to Emperor Haile Selassie at his capital, Addis Ababa, pledging their support were approved at the meeting.

The Italian-Ethiopian crisis has led to a solidifying of darker races throughout the world, Ephraim stated.

Historical Society Opens Its Model Train Exhibit

The Chicago Historical society yesterday opened to the public a new railroad room devoted to the exhibition of model trains depicting the history of American railroading. Included in the exhibition are souvenirs of famous trains and famous events in railroad history. Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad, and Harvey Guy Taylor, chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives, took part in the formal opening of the room.

'ITALY NATION OF SOLDIERS'; DUCE CALLS FOR ACTION

Seeks to Revive Glory of Ancient Rome.

ROME, June 16.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini told 7,000 war veterans today "soldiers always prefer action to words and we are a nation of soldiers."

The destiny of modern Rome, he declared, may well be equal in greatness to that of ancient Rome.

He spoke briefly from the Colosseum, imposing monument of the time when the city ruled all of the known world, to a reunion of grenadiers.

The dictator gave as one of the reasons for the brevity of his address the fact that "matters of great importance to the nation are yet in a state of flux."

Rose to Heights by Arms.

"These stones," he said, pointing to the massive blocks of the Colosseum, "are eloquent of the greatness of Rome, achieved through the force of her arms and the wisdom of her laws. Nothing prevents us from believing that the destinies of yesterday will not be those of tomorrow."

As Il Duce spoke Italy marshaled her financial and economic resources, as well as her man power, for a war with Ethiopia which almost the entire nation believes will break out in the autumn, after the rainy season.

All silver money circulating throughout the kingdom has been ordered turned into the treasury so that the metal may be used in Italy's East African colonies, where silver is the medium of exchange. It is also used in Ethiopia.

Peace Committee Stalled.

Arbitration proceedings designed to settle the boundary dispute between Rome and the African kingdom are now at a virtual standstill and the sending of war materials and workmen to Africa has been speeded up. No fewer than four ships sailed from Naples yesterday for the colonies.

One reason for the "high pressure" is that Italy would like to have her full expeditionary force of around 225,000 men in Africa by Aug. 25, when the time limit set by the league of nations for the arbitration commission to deal with the dispute expires.

The commission, one of whose members is an American, Benjamin Pitman Potter, is scheduled to meet again June 25 in the Netherlands.

The silver decree issued last night makes it illegal for any citizen to possess silver money after a date to be set by the minister of finance, under the penalty of a severe fine.

Senator James Couzens in Hospital for Rest

Detroit, Mich., June 16.—(AP)—Senator James Couzens was admitted to Harper hospital today for rest and treatment. His physician, Dr. Hugo A. Freund, ordered him to enter the hospital after a recent examination. It was reported Dr. Freund would determine whether an operation was necessary at the end of the rest period.

ITALY SEEKS 25,000 CHINESE COOLIES TO BUILD ROADS IN AFRICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 16.—According to information received in London today from Hongkong, the Italian minister at Peiping and the Italian consular offices in southern China have received instructions to negotiate with local governors for recruiting 25,000 Chinese coolies to build military roads in Italian Somaliland. It is believed the Italian government, which has been balked in Egypt and the Dutch East Indies in getting cheap labor, will succeed in China. Japan tried two years ago to secure 100,000 square miles of Ethiopian territory as a concession for cotton growing and Italy stopped it.

OPEN TESSVILLE GAMBLING JOINT DESPITE POLICE

The "Hi-D-Away," an elaborate gambling establishment at Lincoln and Devon avenues, which was closed May 19, has been wide open since last Wednesday, an investigation yesterday disclosed. The reopening was in the face of announcement that the no-gambling order would be strictly enforced by city and county police.

An investigator was admitted without delay to the expensively appointed Tessville place after a guard gave him the customary "frisking" for weapons. Inside 75 men and women were betting on horse races, and playing at roulette and blackjack tables.

Lieut. Lester Laird of the Morton Grove county highway police, in whose district the establishment flourishes, was off duty last night and could not be reached. Sergt. L. A. Rowder, however, declared there "is no gambling in our territory, at least, none that I know of."

PRESIDENT SETS UP 'VOLUNTARY' NRA MACHINERY

O'Neill Is Acting Head of New Board.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 16.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today issued executive orders continuing the NRA in skeletonized form until April 1 next under the terms of the resolution passed by congress last week.

JAMES L. O'NEILL.

The functions of the NRA as deflated by the Supreme court decision will be to assemble statistics on the effect of the late codes on industry and labor and to aid in the maintenance of voluntary codes of fair competition.

O'Neill New Administrator.

The President announced the following appointments of officers to administer the revised institution:

James L. O'Neill, administrator.

Leon C. Marshall, director of the division of review.

Prentiss L. Coonley, director of the division of business coöperation.

George L. Berry, assistant to the administrator representing labor.

The President also created an advisory council for the new organization and appointed to it a number of industrial and labor leaders. The members appointed are Charles Edison, Howell Cheney, Philip Murray, William Green, Emily Newell Blair, and Walton H. Hamilton.

Urges Speedy Adjustment.

"The administration of the amended act," said the President in signing the orders, "will proceed as rapidly as possible to adjust activities and personnel to conform to present limited objectives.

"So long, however, as there is a possibility of further legislation it will be desirable to maintain the general structure of the recovery administration in Washington and in field offices and to retain those essential members of a trained personnel who can be usefully employed. There will be lasting values in a careful appraisal of the two year accomplishments of the NRA and in preserving for permanent use the records of that experience. This can be done most efficiently and economically by those heretofore engaged in the work of codification.

"Gradual Personnel Cuts."

"A steady but gradual reduction of personnel is, therefore, a sound public policy which will also avoid imposing undue hardships on faithful public employés who can continue to render a service of exceptional value to the government. It will be necessary, of course, to retain a sufficient field force to report on the effects of code abolition. This will include information covering changes in labor and fair practice standards."

There are 5,400 employés of the NRA, 4,500 of them in Washington. Reduction of the personnel eventually to 1,500 is contemplated, but it is expected that most of the dismissed employés will be absorbed by other alphabetical agencies.

Tells Purpose and Plans.

"The function and purpose" of the division of business corporation, says the executive order, "shall be to aid in the voluntary maintenance by trade and industrial groups of standards of fair competition, in the elimination of unfair competition in the employment of labor or in trade practices, and in maintaining sources of information and records of experience useful in the work of the division of review, and to otherwise assist in effectuating, so far as possible, the policies of the national industrial recovery act as amended."

Under the terms of the resolution of congress industries may enter into voluntary codes of fair competition, but the Borah amendment restricts the suspension of anti-trust laws to agreements on collective bargaining, minimum wages, maximum hours, prohibition of child labor and proscription of unfair trade practices as defined by the trade commission act and the Clayton act.

Hopes to Justify Revival.

The division of review is to conduct an extensive post-mortem on the late codes which the President expects will justify the existence of the NRA as originally conceived and demonstrate the necessity of its reincarnation. The division is directed to "assemble, analyze, and report upon the statistical information and records of experience of the operations of the various trades and industries heretofore subject to codes of fair competition," to "study the effects of such codes upon trade, industrial and labor conditions in general, and other related matters," and to "make available for the protection and promotion of the public interest an adequate review of the effects of the adiminstration of title I. of the National Industrial Recovery act, and the principles and policies put into effect thereunder."

PRESS FOR PASSAGE OF BILL PROVIDING LOBBYISTS REGISTER

Washington, D. C., June 16.—(AP)—Efforts to catalog lobbyists seeking to influence federal legislation or government officials in awarding contracts are planned by the congressional group backing the senate-approved lobbyist bill pending in the house.

Widespread activities of powerfully organized groups and representatives of various interests in Washington fighting and sponsoring important bills prompted a determined move to get the house judiciary committee to act favorably on the measure introduced by Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.].

"It is believed that the proposed law is in the public interest and that it should be passed," said Senator M. M. Neely [Dem., W. Va.], an advocate of the measure.

"There are literally hundreds of lobbyists here," Black said. "I am absolutely convinced that our government has lost hundreds of millions of dollars which it should not have lost and which it would not have lost if there had been proper publicity given to the activities of lobbyists."

HIS PAL, A HORSE, DIES; FRENCH VET TAKES OWN LIFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SENLIS France, June 16.—Dr. Auguste Gras, retired army surgeon, had one friend in the world, his horse, Bijou, which had carried him through colonial campaigns and the great war.

Dr. Gras, pensioned in 1920, went to live in a little country house in the village of St. Leonard, near Senlis, and was never known to fraternize with the villagers or haunt the taverns after the fashion of retired veterans. Most of the time was spent in Bijou's company, his one diversion being listening to the radio, which he had Bijou enjoy with him.

Bijou died in November. Twice since then Dr. Gras tried to shoot himself, but his aged hand failed to hold the gun steady. He recovered from both attempts. He had just returned from a hospital today. To make certain of his third suicide effort he wound the radio's antenna wires around his neck and jumped off the table in his dining room.

FINAL JUDGMENT ON NEW DEALERS TO BE '36 VOTE

Issue Is Given to G. O. P. by Roosevelt.

if the President were to press his project for the invasion of state rights he would split his party.

On the very day that the Republicans met at Springfield Senator Harry Byrd, Virginia Democrat, took advantage of an address at the commencement exercises of William and Mary college to voice the opposition of southern Democrats and conservative Democrats generally to the President's revolutionary project.

Theory Held Sacred.

Senator Byrd said he does not regard a constitution "a sacred document to be considered immune to change or criticism" but the principles of representative democracy embodied in it "are sacred to those who believe in this form of government."

Thus did the President present the Republican meeting at Springfield with a ready made issue and eagerly did they embrace it. Scarcely had they met before their rostrum was ringing with invocations to save the constitution and the Supreme court from the machinations of the New Dealers and with skilfully directed overtures to conservative Democrats to join with them in the undertaking to retire Mr. Roosevelt to private life.

All in all the Springfield conference uttered the most trenchant and formidable challenge to the New Deal since Mr. Roosevelt began to develop his ideas of a new economic and political order. That the Grass Roots Republicans fired a shot that will be heard round the country admits of little doubt. Already other regional conferences of Republicans are being organized, one at Salt Lake City next month and another at Columbus, O., in September. The principles enunciated in these conferences will become the basis of the national party platform next year.

Farley's Reply Evasive.

The Roosevelt administration put forth a reply to the Springfield declaration which was notable for failure to answer the charge that the President has broken his election promises, for failure to defend the President's proposals to change the form of government. Instead, the answer which was made through Postmaster General Farley was confined to twitting the conference on the failure to point with pride to Mr. Hoover, the latest Republican President.

In the election next year the people for the first time will have the opportunity to vote the New Deal up or down. In the 1932 election the New Deal was only a vague rhetorical term, meaning no more to the average voter than Theodore Roosevelt's Square Deal or Woodrow Wilson's New Freedom. Now the full socialistic and fascistic aspect of the New Deal has been revealed by the regimentation and collectivism of the planned economy and by the President's move for the centralization of government.

To the Republicans it seems as if Mr. Roosevelt had handed them a winning issue on a silver platter.

COURTNEY WARY OF QUOWARRANTO FIGHT UPON GILL

Keeps All Sweitzer Evidence Secret.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday said he would not permit the evidence on which he expects to prosecute Robert M. Sweitzer to be disclosed in the quo warranto proceedings brought by Sweitzer against County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill. Sweitzer was ousted as county treasurer because of a shortage of $414,129 in his accounts during the 24 years he was county clerk. Gill was named his successor.

Mr. Courtney said the quo warranto petition might be an attempt on the part of Sweitzer's lawyers to force the state to show its evidence. Such a disclosure would give defense attorneys an advantage in a subsequent trial, the prosecutor explained.

Advantage for Sweitzer.

The fact that Attorney General Otto Kerner signed the quo warranto petition prepared by Attorney I. Harvey Levinson, was helpful to Sweitzer, according to Mr. Courtney. Otherwise, he explained, Attorney Levinson would have had to bring mandamus action to force the attorney general to sign the petition, and the burden of proof would have been on Sweitzer to show that he was entitled to file an action against Gill, whereas, now the burden is on Gill to show that he holds the office legally, through election by the county board which had removed Sweitzer. Hearing on the quo warranto petition is set for June 24.

Expect Grand Jury Action.

Mr. Courtney expects that before that date the grand jury will have indicted Sweitzer under the statute which makes it a crime for a public official to fail or refuse to turn over to his successor all public money in his possession.

Meanwhile an audit of the county treasurer's books will be started today. Sweitzer was county treasurer from Dec. 3, 1934, to June 6, 1935, but the audit will cover the terms of his predecessors.

Mr. Courtney was not ready to announce plans for a civil suit to recover the shortage, and there was no word from either Sweitzer or Attorney Levinson regarding Sweitzer's promises to pay over the money to County Clerk Michael J. Flynn.

Two Rob Lydy Parking Vice President of $600

Two gunmen robbed P. H. Darling, 608 Deming place, vice president of the R. G. Lydy Parking company, of $600 during the heavy rain yesterday afternoon. Darling and an assistant had just completed making collections from the south side stations when the robbers curbed their automobile in Normal boulevard between 33d and 34th streets.

New York, June 16.—(AP)—Beaches and pleasure resorts in the metropolitan area drew peak crowds of the season today as the temperature continued high for the fourth successive day. Police estimated more than 1,000,000 persons crowded Coney Island and other resorts. The mercury touched 79, a few degrees below the highs of the last three days.

SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

'WIDOW' SUBMITS PHOTOS AS HEIRS OF MISER KELLY

Relents, Lawyer Says, Over Hiding Identity.

The identity of the heirs to the $140,000 estate of James Thomas Kelly, West Madison street miser, may be learned through the photographs of a young man and woman which were turned over yesterday to Jack Rubens, chief investigator for the public administrator. Rubens said he would like to question the two to learn whether or not they are the son and the daughter of the recluse.

Kelly died on March 2 in the home of Mrs. Bella Butman, 6748 Irving Park boulevard. Within a week Mrs. Butman and five others were sentenced to a year in the Bridewell for contempt for producing in Probate court a forged will, which would have apportioned Kelly's estate among them. The six were indicted later for conspiracy and forgery. Their case is scheduled for trial Wednesday.

History of the Marriage.

In his investigations of the forgery Rubens learned that Kelly, an ex-convict, had a wife and children. Through a want ad he got in touch with Mrs. Hazel Reise in Chicago, who, seemingly against her will, gave some substantial proof that she married Kelly in 1913 and divorced him in 1918 after she learned he had served an 8 year term in Joliet penitentiary.

Mrs. Reise said that there were two children by her marriage to Kelly but that she would rather let them lose their parts of the estate than learn that their father was an ex-convict.

She was induced to identify her daughter as Mrs. Elizabeth Hazel Bolton, 20 years old, 6538 South Marshfield avenue, but no one of the name was found there. She asserted her son, James Thomas Reise, 23 years old, was in a hospital in Dwight, under an assumed name.

Changes Mind About Matter.

Yesterday her attorney, Samuel Hoffman, announced that Mrs. Reise was at last willing to help establish the claims of her son and daughter to the Kelly estate. Hoffman turned over to Rubens the photographs, which he declared Mrs. Reise had given to him.

Officials, still skeptical about the names of the children, determined to send to the hospital in Dwight for comparison the picture which the woman represented to be her son.

Woman Identifies Two in Apartment Robbery

Ralph Pecko, 23 years old, 212 West 24th street, and James De Forti, 22 years old, 3528 Parnell avenue, were identified yesterday at the detective bureau showup as robbers by Mrs. Ray Hoover, 5127 Washington boulevard. She told police that on last Tuesday while waiting for two insurance salesmen, she opened the door to Pecko and De Forti. They tied her with rope, and ransacked the apartment, taking two rings worth $400 and $10. The salesmen appeared later, she said, and also were bound and robbed.

DIES OF FALL ON STAIRS.

As a result of injuries she suffered last Jan. 16, when she slipped and fell on the icy stairs of her home, Mrs. Mary Hunter, 86 years old, 15801 South Paulina street, Harvey, died in the County hospital yesterday.

INDIANS SUPPORT CHIEFS IN VOTE

Mrs. Nancy Rockwell, carrying her son, Henry Jr., is shown casting her vote Saturday as the Onondaga Indians went to the polls to ballot on the Wheeler-Howard act, a proposal for a new form of self-government. Residents of this reservation, which is near Syracuse, cast 206 votes against and 150 for the act, which would lessen the power of the chiefs in ruling their tribes.

BRITAIN REJECTS LLOYD GEORGE'S 'NEW DEAL' PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 16.—Former Prime Minister David Lloyd George's "new deal" scheme calling for vast government expenditure in an effort to cure unemployment and revive industry in Great Britain has been turned down by the cabinet. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin will be questioned on the subject when the house of commons reassembles tomorrow after the Whitsunday recess.

A statement will be issued in the near future containing observations of the ministerial committees which studied the plans and discussed them with Lloyd George on eight occasions. Simultaneously it is anticipated Lloyd George will issue a statement on his own account giving the proposals in full detail. The view of Whitehall appears to be that the veteran statesman's plans are too vague and speculative to justify financial backing by the treasury.

The government has drawn up its own plan for national development including railroad electrification schemes, housing, loan and land settlement schemes, a five year road plan, and a speedup in the development of colonies in order to increase productive capacity to give work to British factories for steel, cement, machinery, railways, and other materials required in reconstruction.

British Taxes Estate of Ship Owner $1,273,450

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 16.—The British treasury has received $1,273,450 in death duties from the estate of Sir George Smith Clark of Belfast, one of the founders of the famous shipbuilding firm of Workman, Clark & Co., Ltd. Clark died last March at 74 years of age leaving a fortune of $6,101,320.

Home Rule Rejected

Gallup, N. M., June 16.—(AP)—Navajo tribesmen, representing a sixth of the United States' Indian population, apparently rejected the Wheeler-Howard reorganization act, returns showed tonight.

Forrest M. Parker, supervisor of Navajo construction work, said the vote, with but one chapter unheard from out of more than 100, was: for, 7,679; against, 3,197.

Hopi Indians, a Pueblo tribe, whose reservation is surrounded by Navajos, in their election yesterday approved the act, 522 to 295, Parker said.

Chester A. Faris, head of the Navajo central agency, interpreted the disapproval as meaning the Navajos did not care to assume responsibilities of home rules provided for in the act.

Umatillas Reject Plan.

Pendleton, Ore., June 16.—(AP)—The Umatilla tribe of Indians has turned thumbs down on the Wheeler-Howard proposal for a new form of self-government. The vote, cast yesterday, was 305 against and 159 for the measure.

Expect More Than 2,500 at U. of I. This Summer

Urbana, Ill., June 16.—[Special.]—Enrollment for the summer session at the University of Illinois is expected to exceed last summer's registration of 2,526, officials said today. Registration will be conducted tomorrow with classes starting Tuesday.

TWO PHILIPPINE PARTIES CHOOSE MANUEL QUEZON

MANILA, P. I., June 16.—(AP)—Manuel Quezon was nominated tonight for the presidency of the projected Philippine commonwealth by two principal political parties, holding separate conventions.

This coalition ticket, which included the nomination of Senator Sergio Osmena for vice president, was put forth in opposition to Emilio Aguinaldo, old time insurrection leader, and Gregori Agilpay, head of the Independent Catholic church of the Philippines and former Roman Catholic priest. Both Aguinaldo and Agilpay aspire to the presidency. At the election, to be held next Sept. 17, members of the first national assembly also will be chosen.

Quezon's Nacionalista party and Osmena's "Pro Independence" party put through the coalition plan. Answering Aguinaldo's proposal to reduce the independence transition period by three to five years, the identical platforms of the two parties said "the question of independence has been settled" by the Tydings-McDuffie act, which provides establishment of complete independence after a transition period of 10 years. The platforms also favored the joining of the league of nations by the Philippines after independence.

RECOVER SWIMMER'S BODY.

The body of George Fort, 37 years old, 1907 South 51st avenue, Cicero, was recovered yesterday from a water filled quarry in Cermak park, Ogden avenue and Gage street, Lyons, where he drowned while swimming Saturday.

ELGIN HONORS WOMAN, 103, AT ITS CENTENNIAL

Churches Hold Special Services; Parade Today.

Mrs. Calista Fowler, 103 years old, a pioneer and the oldest resident of Elgin, was the guest of honor at special services yesterday at the Old People's home, where she lives. The services were conducted by the Rev. W. H. Tope of the Grace Methodist church, of which Mrs. Fowler was a charter member.

Special centenary services were held in all of the churches of the city yesterday, opening the week of celebration in honor of the founding of the city one hundred years ago. Walter H. Kimball, 96 years old, the second male born in Elgin, attended services in the Grace Methodist church. He is a son of one of the founders.

First Pastor's Daughter at Church.

Miss Jessie Ambrose of Oak Park, a daughter of the first pastor of the First Baptist church in Elgin, which was founded in 1838, attended the services of that church yesterday. Dr. Sidney W. Powell preached.

One of the most colorful of the services in Elgin's churches yesterday was that of the Holy Trinity church, which dramatized the first Sunday school class in Elgin. That class was in the cabin of the Gifford family, one of the founders, where Miss Harriet Gifford taught the class. Many descendants of the family attended yesterday the services conducted by the Rev. Armin G. Weng.

Parade and Pageant Today.

An open air sacred concert was given at the Academy field last night by a chorus of 80 voices under the direction of Franklin C. Sorn.

The historical parade which will really open the week's centenary celebration will be held this afternoon, and the first of four presentations of the pageant, "The Wings of Time," will be given this evening.

FINDING UPHOLDS OAK PK. CHARGE AGAINST POLICE

Allman to Receive Report of Investigator Today.

Police Commissioner James Allman today will receive a detailed report on the activities of a Chicago police squad, accused of having interceded for union sluggers and pickets arrested last Wednesday in Oak Park after beating of a florist. The investigation was made by Lieut. Charles Egan, in charge of the "racket detail" recently organized by Supervising Captain Daniel Gilbert.

Lieut. Egan's report will substantiate the charge that Sergt. Andrew Carroll and members of his squad stopped an Oak Park patrol wagon in which several union pickets, arrested in front of the florist shop, were being taken to the village police station and demanded that they be released. The demand was refused and the patrol wagon went on to the station, but the pickets were freed later, after the Chicago police had again interceded, pointing out that they had not been involved in the slugging.

Arraign Six Tomorrow.

Six other union members will be arraigned tomorrow before the village magistrate on charges of assaulting Peter Jarvaras and his partner, Gus Poulos, who operate a small florist shop at 1145 North Harlem avenue, Oak Park. It was after the slugging of Jarvaras in the village business section that the pickets and four of the assault suspects were arrested. Later in the day, two more union men were arrested in front of the florist shop and charged with assault after Poulos complained that they had attacked him in the company office.

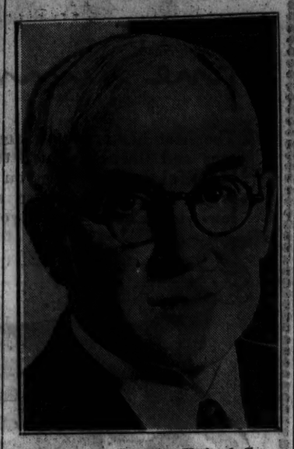
A letter of protest by James A. Howe, village president, against "police protection for union violence" brought an indication from Attorney General Otto Kerner that he will have a representative present at tomorrow's hearing to obtain all the facts in the case.

Joins, but Will Prosecute.

Meanwhile Jarvaras announced that he had joined the Florist Drivers' union, at the solicitation of E. J. Price, secretary of the union and one of those arrested after the slugging. Price allowed him to join upon payment of a $25 deposit on the $100 initiation fee, Jarvaras said, adding that he will nevertheless prosecute those charged with attacking him.

Those arrested besides Price are Edward J. Rogers, secretary; Fred Bohlman and Larry Monahan, business agents of the Excavating, Grading, and Asphalt Teamsters' union; E. H. Gale, business agent of the Liveried Chauffeurs' union, and William Libby, business agent of the Garage Helpers' union.

Kidnap Jury Called



J. Charles Dennis, United States attorney for western Washington, who will direct prosecution in Weyerhaeuser kidnaping case in Tacoma.

[Acme Photo.]

Tacoma, Wash., June 16.—(AP)—Prompt federal prosecution of red haired Harmon Waley and his girlish wife, Margaret, for the $200,000 ransom kidnaping of 9 year old George Weyerhaeuser was indicated here today as United States Judge E. E. Cushman summoned a grand jury.

Department of Justice agents will testify against the accused pair this week before the grand jury, it was announced. The trial is expected to start within three weeks.

The Waleys, arrested in Salt Lake City after the young wife was caught passing one of the ransom bills, will be prosecuted under the federal Lindbergh law, which provides a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Federal officers, meanwhile, pressed their search throughout the west for William Mahan, whom they have named as one of the kidnapers, and a mysterious woman.

Hunt Mahan in Texas.

Kirbyville, Tex., June 16.—(AP)—Kirbyville officers left tonight on a hunt for a man they had been told was William Mahan, ex-convict sought in the George Weyerhaeuser kidnaping. The man escaped after a gun fight yesterday.

The car in which the man fled was reported located in the Cow creek bottoms seven miles east of here. Night Marshal N. B. Powell said he believed the suspect still was in that vicinity.

Tries to Kidnap Daughter; Caught; Swallows Poison

Joseph Melet, 31 years old, a former deputy sheriff of Detroit, tried yesterday to spirit away his daughter, 3 years old, from the home of Mrs. Joseph Wolf, 4900 North Avers avenue, sister of his estranged wife. He was pursued, however, by Wolf, who quickly recovered the child. Thereupon Melet swallowed poison. Wolf called the Albany Park police, who procured first aid for Melet, then held him on a charge of disorderly conduct.

INQUIRY SOUGHT INTO CHARGE FOR CRADLE PHONES

Cost Varies in Different States; Users Object.

Variations in the extra charges made for telephone sets of the cradle type in the different states have prompted efforts to have the Illinois Bell Telephone company cited before the Illinois commerce commission to show cause why the charge should not be abolished altogether, according to disclosures yesterday. The ruling of the commission now in effect permits the company to charge 25 cents per month for three years for each of the sets in use.

Prior to that ruling, which was entered on May 10, 1933, the company was allowed to continue the 25 cent monthly charge indefinitly. In New York state the telephone company is permitted to charge 15 cents a month for two years. After the two year period the company must get an order from the commerce commission before it can levy an additional charge.

Origin of the Charge.

A survey presented to the Illinois commerce commission showed that Chicago and other Illinois cities fare worse than many other cities and states in this surcharge. It was explained that the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the parent of nearly all the telephone companies in the country, devised the scheme of adding this "nuisance charge" to subscribers' bills in order to limit requests for this type of telephone apparatus.

An excuse given was that otherwise the demand would be so great that older equipment would be obsolete and would have to be discarded prematurely. When the hand sets, sometimes called French type phones, came into use in 1928 the charge was 25 cents per month all over the country.

The survey showed that in 1933 the state commerce commissions reduced this charge to 15 cents per month, without limitation of time, in Georgia, New Jersey, and Oklahoma. This year Tennessee followed suit. New York's order fixing the charge at 15 cents a month for two years was entered in 1933. In 1935 Mississippi cut it to 15 cents a month for not more than three years.

Unlimited in Some States.

Missouri, Indiana, Ohio, South Dakota, Nebraska and South Carolina permit the 25 cent charge per month without limitation as to the number of years. Minnesota permits the 25 cent charge for only one year. Michigan, through an order entered last year, permits it for 18 months. Wisconsin and Pennsylvania have fixed the period at two years.

In the District of Columbia the charge is 25 cents per month until $4.50 is paid, or $4 in cash when the set is installed.

According to information furnished to the Illinois commerce commission, the telephone companies have collected many times over the original cost of the sets. Engineers have asserted that other kinds of sets which were on hand in 1928 have outlived their usefulness and that the cradle sets are no more expensive than old apparatus.

The commerce commission is expected to act on its own motion in the citation to be served on the Illinois company. Unofficial statements to the commission were that the American Telephone and Telegraph company already has reaped a profit of $14,000,000 from the installation of the hand sets. Chicago users of them have paid $9 for each set, or still are paying on them, it was said, and many protests occur each day against the continuation of the levy.

CROSSES LAKE IN 18 FOOT BOAT IN ROUGH WATER

John O. Anderson Jr., 16 years old, son of Capt. Anderson, commander of the old Chicago station of the United States coast guard, is following in his father's footsteps.

Last Friday he sailed from Chicago to Michigan City, Ind., in his 18 foot Cape Cod centerboard sloop and would have returned yesterday in the same manner but for his father, who ordered his adventurous son to attach his tow line to the coast guard cutter for the return trip.

Lake yachtsmen declared yesterday that young Skipper Anderson's feat in such a small boat was remarkable in view of the fact that the lake was rough throughout the trip, which took ten hours. The skipper, with Jerry Padon as his "crew," tacked a course along the southern shore in the teeth of a strong wind. The distance sailed was about 45 miles.

PLAN CITY-WIDE JULY 4 FETE AT SOLDIERS' FIELD

A mass celebration with colorful pageantry and military maneuvers will commemorate on July 4 the 159th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The ceremonies, under the direction of the Cook County Council of the American Legion, will take place in Soldiers' field.

Regular army units, naval reserves, airplanes, Legion posts, musical organizations and R. O. T. C. cadets will participate. Beside the strictly military and patriotic aspects of the program, athletic events and prominent speakers are to entertain the crowd. The Cook county Legion council hopes to make this centralized patriotic observance an annual event.

"Every patriotic organization and civic group in the county has been invited to take part in this tribute to the great document which marked the beginning of our country," said Capt. Jack Reilly, chairman of the program committee.

One event will be a "Carnival of Light" of World's Fair splendor.

PIQUETT ON TRIAL AGAIN TODAY IN HARBORING CASE

Attorney Louis P. Piquett will face trial today before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan on a charge of having harbored Homer Van Meter, lieutenant of John Dillinger, gangster, while Van Meter was a fugitive. In a previous trial Piquett was acquitted on a charge of having harbored Dillinger. A jury freed the attorney after he testified that he was acting merely in the confidential manner of a lawyer and his client. He testified that he had tried to induce Dillinger to surrender. Principal government witnesses in the trial starting today will be Dr. Wilhelm Loeser and Dr. Harold B. Cassidy, who performed the face lifting operations on Dillinger and Van Meter, and Arthur O'Leary, former investigator for Piquett.

REPORT WARNS ON AAA WHEAT, TOBACCO PLANS

Indefinite Life Unjustified, Says Brookings Study.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 16.—[Special.]—The Brookings institution today published reports of studies of the wheat and tobacco programs under the Agricultural Adjustment administration. Both reports, which have been under way by different economists since the AAA was set up, conclude there is no justification for indefinite continuation of the two programs.

The wheat report, written by Joseph S. Davis, a director of the food research institute of Stanford university, warns against a tendency to spread a sinister form of political corruption. It credits progress in raising prices and reducing surplus largely to two successive years of drouth and lists contributory causes as the influence of the tarif and dollar depreciation.

Doubts General Worth.

The conclusion is reached that neither results nor promises of the AAA wheat program justify indefinite continuation of the experiment in the form now contemplated. The report states that the program had modified the course of recovery, both as to regions and industry, but expresses doubt that it has promoted general recovery or contributed to increasing total money income.

The tobacco report of Harold B. Rowe of the institution's regular staf is more favorable to the administration. It states that substantial benefits have been obtained for growers with little, if any, added burden on consumers through higher prices thus far. It states that it may be that the benefits would not permanently justify the maintenance of complex machinery required for the tobacco program.

The wheat report expresses doubt that the "parity" price can be attained by measures yet applied or proposed (barring accidents of nature), but points out that contract signers in 1933-'34 and 1934-'35 received more income than if they had received parity prices on all wheat they sold but no benefit payments in addition.

Cites "Major Achievement."

The major achievement of the wheat program in its first two years was found to be the increase in income of wheat growers as a group by probably more than 200 million dollars above what they would otherwise have received.

"This involved little burden on the public treasury and apparently no large net burden on the milling and baking industries," according to the report. "It was done mainly at the expense of consumers of wheat. In this redistribution of national income consumers as a class paid more money than wheat growers gained. Congress deliberately authorized a procedure that led to this result on the ground that it was in the natural interest."

Of the political implications the report states:

"The AAA has striven, in the main with considerable success, to prevent political influence from determining its wheat program or interfering with its effective execution. Nevertheless the distribution of payments to wheat growers powerfully influences votes in the regions most concerned.

Voters' Attitudes Told.

"Once this policy is established, and the flow of funds well started, attitudes of voters tend to be determined not by the inherent wisdom of the policy as a whole but by the desire to keep these funds flowing.

"As in the notorious cases of the protective tarif and 'pork barrel' appropriations for river and harbor improvement, those who get such favors from the government seek to retain and enlarge them, and their opposition to similar favors to other regions and other groups is weakened.

"There is a tendency for the spread of sinister corruption which even its benefits do not commonly recognize as such, so plausible are the grounds on which it is advocated and its results are accepted."

No attempt is made in the tobacco report to appraise the merits of the program as a public policy, although it is pointed out that benefits to producers could not be increased indefinitly.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Spiders Menace Trees

June 16, 1935.

An exceptionally heavy infestation of red spiders and thrips, both sucking insects, on cedar trees this spring has prompted gardeners at THE TRIBUNE experimental farm to warn other growers to examine their evergreens and take extra precaution to protect them.

John Wallner, head gardener, has a simple way of detecting the insects on the evergreens. He takes a piece of white paper and knocks red spiders and thrips off by giving the branches a vigorous shaking. The red spiders appear to be tiny specks of reddish colored dust particles on the paper. They move slowly over the surface. Thrips are longer and move more rapidly across the paper.

Both of these pests suck the juice out of the cedars and cause them to turn brown.

Spraying with water and dusting with a chemical mixture containing sulphur have been found effective means of keeping the red spider and the thrips under control. Spraying small evergreen trees with cold water is a practice followed at the farm. The spraying is done after sundown and under about 60 pounds pressure.

Where the trees are tall Mr. Wallner has found that the pressure is so low by the time the water reaches the top of the trees that spiders cannot be effectively kept under control by this method. He dusts the trees with a chemical mixture containing sulphur where they are more than 10 or 12 feet high.

Where dust is used it is best to apply it at this time of the year. Evergreen growers are warned against dusting their trees in hot weather. The chemicals seem to burn the evergreen and kill the trees.

Mr. Wallner says that the red spider is commonly found throughout this part of the country. It is likely to cause widespread damage to evergreen trees this summer, especially on cedar and arborvitæ trees in northern Illinois. The wet spring seems to have favored their development, according to this gardener.

With trees that are low in vitality, Mr. Wallner prefers spraying them with cold water, providing he can reach the branches with water under at least 60 pounds of pressure. This plan is recommended especially where the treatment of the trees is delayed until hot weather in July and August.

Spraying with water and dusting methods may be used on the same tree. After dust has been applied the trees should not be sprayed with water for at least a week, he advises.

Grass clippings and peat moss are good mulching materials to use around evergreen trees, Mr. Wallner finds in caring for the trees at the Wheaton farm.

V. F. W. PRAISES YATES STIRLING IN RED EXPOSE

Washington, D. C., June 16.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Yates Stirling Jr. was commended by an official of Veterans of Foreign Wars today for warning America against "Red Russia's long planned world revolution."

In a letter to Secretary Swanson commenting on a newspaper article by the naval officer, Charles E. Weickhardt, naval liaison officer of the veterans' organization, wrote:

"On behalf of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, I wish to commend Rear Admiral Yates Stirling Jr. for the distinct service he rendered the United State by warning the American people of the ripening of Red Russia's long planned world revolution."

President Roosevelt disclosed Friday that Secretary Swanson was conferring with Secretary Hull on the Sterling article which some members of congress have contended advocated war with Russia.

Century Plant Blossoms Draw Throngs to Park

Hundreds of visitors to Garfield park conservatory were given an opportunity yesterday to see a century plant, technically named "Agave micracantha," in full bloom. Not particularly attractive so far as appearance and odor are concerned, the plant is always viewed by visitors with interest. Many take it for granted that the plant blooms only once every hundred years, but most of the species develop blossoms in from five to fifteen years. At the Garfield park conservatory, officials said, crowds of visitors are attracted each time the blooming of a century plant is announced.

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO!

Read below what these famous athletes say about their experiences in smoking Camels

A suggestion: Follow the athletes in your search for cigarette mildness. They can't trifle with healthy nerves—"condition"—wind. The cigarette they smoke must be mild.

Tommy Armour, the golf champion, says: "Camels never bother my nerves or shorten my wind—convincing evidence that Camels are mild."

Mel Ott, heavy-hitting outfielder of the New York Giants, reports: "My experience is that Camels are so mild they never get my wind."

Stubby Kruger, water polo and swimming star: "Camels are mild and gentle. They don't interfere with my wind." And Amy Lou Oliver, diver, and Lester Stoefen, tennis star, agree with Pete Knight, the rodeo champion, who says: "Camels—there's a smoke so mild it never spoils your timing, never cuts down your wind, never gets you out of condition."

A mildness that will please you too!

Camels are made from costlier tobaccos. They are mild, cool, gentle on the throat. Smoke them all you wish. Camels don't upset your nerves ...or tire your taste. And athletes find that Camels do not get their wind.

CONSIDER THAT LIFE IS MORE worth while when you feel physically fit, "in condition." Think of your nerves...your wind...and turn to Camels. They are made from costlier tobaccos. Athletes say, "They don't get your wind."

SO MILD YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

HOOVER WARNS U.S. MUST CLING TO ITS FREEDOM

Addresses Graduates at Stanford University.

Stanford University, Cal., June 16.—(AP)—Another warning against any sacrifice of freedom in the search for economic security was sounded here today by former President Herbert Hoover.

Caustic references to "hothouse methods" of restoring social growth, to "the economy of scarcity," and to burocracy were made by Mr. Hoover in addressing the 1935 graduating class of Stanford, his alma mater.

Harks Back to 1895.

In a rererence to the prevalence of individualism at the time of his own graduation in 1895, Mr. Hoover said he spoke "at the risk of seeming counter-revolutionary or as a defender of evil."

"Government by specific laws, not by the uncertainties of administrative fiat," was one tenet put forth by the former President.

"The concentration of economic power and the concentration of political power are equally destructive," he remarked.

"There never has been nor never will be freedom when powers of government are lodged in a man or in a group of men," he added.

"Moreover, all history teaches us that even majorities cannot be trusted with the ark of freedom without checks.

Sees Threat to Freedom.

"Constitutional government, the division of powers, are the only successful protections the human race has devised. To transgress or override them will weaken and finally destroy freedom itself."

Only a few days prior to the recent Supreme court decision that brought death to the Blue Eagle, Mr. Hoover in an interview advocated abolition of the NRA.

"Social security," he told the graduates, "must be built upon a cult of work, not a cult of leisure. The judgment on Adam has not yet been reversed."

Sees More Advancement.

The former President foresaw the possibility of great advancement if the right direction were followed.

"If our thought is clear, and if our methods are rightly directed," he said, "we should see another era of advancement as great as the hundred years which followed the Napoleonic wars. If our course is wrongly directed, civilization can go deeply into eclipse as it did in the middle ages."

Mr. Hoover declared freedom and the "capacity to produce plenty of goods and services with which to give economic security to the whole of us" the first two of the social securities.

"Economic security is lost the moment that freedom is sacrificed," he added. "Any system which curtails this freedom destroys the possibility of the production which we know we must have to attain economic security.

"Economic security and in fact social security can be greatly strengthened by wider-spread property ownership."

Chance Arrest Snares Suspect in Check Case

George Frolick, 39 years old, 6312 Drexel avenue, arrested yesterday morning on suspicion at Drake avenue and Addison street by Policemen Peter Harlib and Ray Venn of the Albany Park police, was identified at the showup at the detective bureau in the afternoon as a man who has been sought several weeks for passing worthless checks on Chicago merchants. Frolick, who received $46 a month from the government as compensation for injuries received while in the army, has a police record dating to 1927.

HARVARD PREXY URGES COURAGE IN CHAOTIC ERA

Cambridge, Mass., June 16.—(AP)—James Bryant Conant, president of Harvard university, today surveyed a world "where reason ebbs and hope for freedom and liberty runs low" and out of its chaos sounded a call for "courage and humility."

In the annual baccalaureate sermon to seniors Harvard's youthful president took his text from the gospel according to Matthew, "Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith?' and, in elaboration of his theme, asserted:

"A man would have to be in a most unrealistic mood indeed to paint a rosy picture of the future which lies immediately ahead of us."

"In at least two foreign countries we see brutal and degrading tyranny," he said.

"You will hear people today speaking of this or that possibility as though it would be the greatest disaster in recorded history of the human race," he continued.

"Have those who make such statements ever considered the state of central Europe after the thirty years' war? Do they realize what mankind has been through? We cannot foresee the course of events or the verdict of posterity. We can only meet the challenge of our day, laboring passionately, unceasingly, but never with despair. The heroes of the past could do no more."

BLONDE HUNTED BY FRANCE AS SPY RING'S HEAD

Naval Aviator Trapped in Sale of Photos.

TOULON, France, June 16.—(AP)—Riviera police hunted for a mysterious "blonde with green eyes" today while secret government agents questioned a young naval aviator charged with selling military photographs to a spy ring.

Aviator Rolland, attached to the Hyeres air base, was caught in a police trap. He refused to explain a packet of six aerial photographs of the Toulon base which authorities said he turned over to a ring led by the blonde.

After Rolland's arrest police raided an apartment near the water front which had been transformed into a photographic laboratory. The lone occupant was arrested, but his name and occupation were not disclosed.

Search Flyer's Home.

The commandant of the Toulon military base broke the official silence with the brief statement that the most valuable photographs of France's southern bases and camps are still safe in the headquarters and that Rolland's photos "are not vitally important."

Counterespionage agents noticed that Rolland was spending a lot of money on Toulon night life. They searched his apartment and found documents that put them on his trail.

They learned a friend of his regularly left a packet at a café to be called for by "Monsieur Jo." This man took the packets to the outskirts of Toulon, where they were handed over to the blonde in a large automobile.

Blonde Escapes Trap.

A trap set for the ring early today failed to bag the blonde, who outdistanced her pursuers in the car and escaped in the direction of the Italian border.

Rolland, arrested after a friend left with a packet, refused to talk or explain an envelope containing 5,000 francs [about $325] in his possession.

Valentine. The processes were developed in the technical research laboratory of the department.

ARRAIGN COUPLE TODAY IN DOPE PARTY FATALITY

Mrs. Lucille Fleigelman, 27 years old, and Lissell Leix, 31 years old, will be arraigned in the Felony court today on charges of manslaughter growing out of the death last Friday of Mrs. Margarette Ford McGivney, wife of Walter McGivney, 25 East Delaware place, a millinery importer. Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue station said a continuance would be asked pending completion of the investigation.

Mrs. McGivney, during her husband's absence from the city, was entertaining Mrs. Fleigelman and Leix in a room of the Lincoln Park Arms hotel, 2738 Pine Grove avenue. According to Mrs. Fleigelman, who is a narcotic addict and is under indictment for peddling dope, Mrs. McGivney took an injection of heroin with a needle owned by Mrs. Fleigelman. The coroner's physicians were unable to determine at once whether her death was due to heroin, Capt. Duffy said, and the coroner continued his inquest until June 21.

The police plan is to hold Leix, a shoe salesman, and Mrs. Fleigelman, whose husband, Bruno, was indicted with her as a dope peddler, either in jail or under bond until the coroner's chemist has concluded tests of the vital organs of the dead woman.

MATERIALISTIC GOAL ASSAILED BY YALE HEAD

New Haven, Conn., June 16.—(AP)—Governments whose political philosophy is motivated by dominantly materialistic purposes, President James Rowland Angell of Yale university said today in a criticism of communism and Fascism, cannot be expected to endure.

"And so long as they do endure, they menace the most sacred and vital elements in human personality," he asserted in his baccalaureate address.

"Absolutism, whether as monarchy, or communism, or Fascism," he said, "may work in the sense that it will provide an organized society in which some measure of instant safety and comfort may be assured to the mass of men; but how long and how effectively it can do even this is open to doubt."

Meantime, he continued, there always remains to be assessed its essential justice and wisdom, and still more the "sum total of its effect upon the souls of its citizens."

Democracy, President Angell said, "beyond any other type of political organization thus far devised, offers liberty to the human spirit and equality of opportunity to its citizens, within whose hands resides the power to correct its evils."

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

PERSECUTION AS PROSECUTION.

The impropriety of comment upon proceedings in court pending their final disposal has prevented editorial criticism of the conduct of the government in the prosecution of Samuel Insull and the other officials legally involved in the crash of the financial structure he had erected. But a hostility between THE TRIBUNE and Mr. Insull, grounded as far as THE TRIBUNE was concerned upon issues of public welfare and lasting for something like thirty years, has not blinded us to the fact that the government had turned a prosecution under form of law into a persecution.

Encouraged by the political opportunities of widespread misfortune and the natural reaction of the many victims of the Insull financial debacle, the conduct of the prosecution has been reckless in its scope and regardless of the elements of justice underlying legal issues involved. Many of the defendants were brought into this persecution on what are now known to be the flimsiest grounds. This was demonstrated unmistakably in the recent dismissal of the charges against six of the ten defendants in the case just summarily ended by direction of a verdict of not guilty against the remaining four. It was tardy correction of an inexcusable abuse of power.

The case of Stanley Field, one of the six, was especially noteworthy, not because injustice to one man is more condemnable than the same injustice to another, but because Mr. Field has earned an honorable reputation in the community for public service as well as for business integrity, and bore a name long associated with outstanding achievement in the upbuilding of American business and the progress especially of Chicago. His indictment and prosecution, therefore, was one of the most sensational aspects of the government's action in the case of a citizen less widely and favorably known. All of the six, against whom the government, at the eleventh hour, confessed, by unescapable inference, it had no case, have suffered serious injury and gross injustice, but Mr. Field has been subjected inevitably to a special ordeal, to a special public condemnation and humiliation.

In the first trial to which Mr. Field was subjected, which resulted in a jury verdict of not guilty for all defendants, the flimsiness of the charges against him was sufficiently exposed to impose upon any conscientious prosecution the dropping of any further action against him. In fact, it was clear in that trial that the government had no faith in its case against him, which was only briefly and perfunctorily touched. Yet he was subjected to this second prosecution involving a further humiliation for him and his family and long months of the suspense which any one under the shadow of public prosecution, however innocent, must suffer.

What has pretended to be a performance of public duty directed by law has from the first shown the stigma of personal and political persecution. All the defendants have now been freed from the charges against them. But the public has had an ominous lesson, of which the present administration has given many others, of the extent to which unscrupulous politics will go, under pretense of public justice or the public weal, to abuse its power.

BUSES VS. STREET CARS.

The New York Times seems highly enthusiastic over the replacement of surface lines by buses on New York streets. According to figures released by the transit commission in the city of New York, the new Madison avenue buses handled a total of four million patrons during the first two months of operation as compared with two million street car riders. The service has been much improved by the substitution of the motor coaches and the property owners hail the new noiseless operation as a boon. Apartment dwellers along the avenue do not have their slumbers interrupted by the rattle of the old trolley cars.

But the whole crux of the situation is contained in the phrase, "from every point of view the substitution of sleek, new buses for the antiquated surface cars which formerly cluttered up Madison avenue appears to have been a success." The New York and Harlem railway had permitted its equipment to become so obsolete as to merit condemnation. The decision of the New York patrons and property owners has not been determined by any superiority of one form of transport over another, but rather because a street car line was still operating on 1900 standards. Buses can develop just as noisy and uncomfortable riding qualities as old street cars, while the roar of surface lines can be reduced and acceleration, safety, speed, and convenience vastly improved.

In certain circumstances and on certain routes buses have undeniable superiority, which is recognized by the Chicago Surface Lines themselves, through the purchase and operation of ever increasing numbers of trackless trolleys and gasoline vehicles, but the New York experience does not prove the surface car obsolete. But unless the street car companies wake up and modernize their equipment, the public will act upon that assumption.

COMIC STRIP LEGISLATION.

Persons who would benefit under the old age pension act passed by the Illinois legislature already are writing in to inquire when they get their dollar a day. The answer is when the legislature finds the money. None has been provided. The act does not say how it is to be done. At present it is a nice promise, but there are no groceries in it.

Five million dollars, estimated as the cost, is now regarded as too low. The bill may be twice that amount. Gov. Horner does not approve taking it but of his spending money. He asked the legislature to pass the bill, which is an easy thing to do if the matter goes no further than a promise. A deduction of the needed money from the state's general revenue would put the administration in a hole and new taxes would do the same.

It is not true that the gentlemen of the legislature are bewildered philanthropists anxious to deal out social justice all around and trying to whistle the money out of the wind, nor does it follow that they have escaped their custodians and are deeding their estates to their uncles and aunts. The legislature doesn't think it is Uncle Bim. It is an assemblage of fellows who do not mind doing a good deed calculated to do themselves some good if it doesn't cost them anything. In the present state of government they have a lot of company.

THE LAKE AIRPORT AS WORK RELIEF.

The Chicago lake front airport project possesses characteristics that should highly recommend it to the work relief fund administration. Unlike a proposal that involves the construction of a building or a bridge, there would be no delay for the preparation of detailed plans. Within a day or two after authorization the driving of the necessary piling can be commenced and rock filling from the sanitary district operations can be transported to the site. The engineers will be working on familiar ground so that there would be no hitch or loss of time, as sand filling follows the rock base and surfacing in its turn completes the groundwork.

Hangars and buildings, of course, will be necessary, but their plans will involve no architectural intricacies and the specifications can be prepared while the island is in process of construction. Thus the project offers steady employment from the day of appropriation until the port is ready for the reception of the first plane. With a relatively high labor pay roll in proportion to the total expenditure, involving the employment of a wide variety of accessories—cables, fuel storage tanks, building materials—the undertaking is ideal as an element in the work relief plan.

A DESERVING YOUNG FATHER MAKES GOOD.

Although Mr. Braddock, the new heavyweight champion, will not go immediately into retirement, he isn't to fight again until next summer some time. The new champion collected 31 thousand and some odd dollars, the short end of the division, but a lot of money in the Braddock family. For at least a year he is to be given opportunity and time to collect the various revenues which can flow into the pockets of a citizen recognized as No. 1 boy in the prize ring. This arrangement seems fair enough. A champion who couldn't hurt the man he beat on points may not retain the title very long, and it is only fair to leave him free to get what he can while he has it.

Braddock proved that he was one citizen the depression couldn't keep down and he showed what a courageous man can do for recovery, taking what most folks would regard as a most unpromising way of doing it. Mr. Baer seemed to be a lot of river to cross. Various speculations are offered to explain Max, one being that he couldn't keep his mind off the three Braddock kids and get it on their papa, where his attention was required. Baer as a champion had the distinction of making it appear somewhat of a joke, chiefly to him. That attitude is not without its advantages, except when the holder of the title is trying to keep it.

Mr. Baer will have to look about for ways of increasing his own bank account. Before losing to Braddock and immediately afterward he promised steam yachts to any one who ever saw him pull on a glove again. Inasmuch as he is already being matched on his way back to an attempt at the title again, he would seem to be in for a bit of spending which would make even the New Deal seem unimportant.

Editorial of the Day

PROF. TUGWELL'S FORECAST.

[Sioux City Journal.]

Rexford Guy Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, and one of the foremost New Dealers, told a graduating class in New Mexico that terrible things may come as a result of the Supreme court's decision that the NRA was unconstitutional. For "first we found ourselves in economic ruin and now we find ourselves deprived of effective means of reconstruction." Internal strife is the forecast as the brain truster sees it.

There probably will be a good deal of this kind of talk in the next year or so. Brain trusters who have high positions in the government probably will go about the country scaring the people to death with all sorts of predictions of dire consequences of the Supreme court's decision. That may be done as a buildup for further attacks upon the constitution in the campaign of 1936.

The New Dealers are hard losers from Mr. Roosevelt down to and beyond Prof. Tugwell. They built unwisely and they saw their dream castle tumble into ruins at their feet. They evidently felt and still feel that the Supreme court, created for the performance of the duty of protecting the nation and people against unconstitutional legislation, should have indorsed and approved their theories. The Tugwells have told us their theories would work, but they didn't. They told us they were constitutional, but they weren't. Now they predict internal strife. Maybe they are guessing wrong again.

I AM MUCH GRIEVED at Henry Ford. In declaring that the police could run the country and make a better job of it he pointed to a lineup of motorcycle policemen and said: "Look at those fine fellows. They have proven the police can run things." Oh Henry, Henry! How could you! Those motor cops have not proven anything of the kind, though from your way of thinking they may have proved it. You may find a dictionary or two that says "proven" is allowable, Henry, but it's sloppy English, oh, very sloppy, as can be easily proved, Henry, easily proved.

Say he is dead, but he is none the less
A colored picture on my memory's wall,
And if he never was a great success
I still can see him easiest of all
Sitting there dourly in the deepest chair,
Elbows on knees, glass cradled in his fist,
Insulting heaven with a kind of air
Of reticence for what is better missed.
There never was a meaner man than he,
To hear him tell it, nor a bigger fool—
Turning a bitter wit to words for me
As boys scrawl wide on fences after school.
And where he is, not many think or care.
I hope there's liquor, and an easy chair.

DAVE DARRAH, the Trib's correspondent in Rome, has been expelled by Mussolini, and I'm sorry I couldn't send him a message in time of the words he should have used to the Duce as he went out. I always used to say it every time anybody asked me to getthell outten there. Drawing myself up haughtily and stiffly I always answered, "Very well. But let me tell you something. I've been fired out of better countries than this one." And how shamefaced they always looked. Of course, this sage remark is not exactly new, but I hardly think any one has pulled it on Mussolini yet, and if Dave had used it—my, wouldn't Mussolini's face have been red!

THIS IS ONE OF THE TIMES when I feel very ashamed for belonging to the human race. I'm going around now apologizing to every Scottie and chow and poodle I can find. Every sort of canine, in fact, except a police dog. A police dog I regard as just as bad as the human I'm going to tell about. A young woman was walking down the street with her little Pekinese trotting along happily behind her. A man walked past and as he came to the Peke he raised a great brutal foot and kicked the little dog into the middle of the street, where it lay screaming with pain. "Oh, why," gasped the young woman to the man as she started for her helpless pet, "why in the world did you do that?" "Because I'm a He-Man," replied Jack the Peke Kicker. "I don't stand for sissy dogs like that," and he walked proudly away. The little Peke was found to have two ribs broken and was taken to a veterinarian, while as soon as I heard the story (I didn't see it) I started out apologizing to every dog I met. Except police dogs—they act too much like He-Men.

PROBLEM.

I cannot check the arrow sent,
Nor build a cloud again,
Nor capture for a second time
The fragrance of this rain.

And I can only guess the spot
On which my arrow fell,
For there were only birds to see,
And only clouds to tell.

And how am I to know today
What bird was in my sky,
Or which of these brief clouds it was
Had chanced to happen by?

THE RUNNING EAR.

MANY of us have some knowledge of middle ear disease [the running ear], and we designate the disease as chronic whenever it has existed for more than a few weeks.

As a rule there is relatively little pain—nothing comparable to the acute pain that was present when the earache first appeared. While there may have been a high fever, loss of appetite, and headache at the start, most of these symptoms have subsided and Johnnie is all right except that now and then he will have a discharge from one or both ears that will show on the pillow or on a cotton plug in the ear canal.

The infection, of whatever type it may be, originated in the nose or throat and passed by way of the Eustachian tube into the mucous lined space in the skull which contains the delicate mechanism of hearing. Acute colds, measles, scarlet fever, influenza, diphtheria, sinus disease, bathing in infected pools, forcibly blowing the nose in the presence of a throat infection—all may be factors. With the beginning of inflammation in the middle ear the Eustachian tube swells shut and we have a fire [inflammation] burning within a closed area. The oxygen to keep the flame alive is supplied by blood vessels in the mucous lining. Pressure soon manifests itself, the ear drum bulges and either breaks of its own accord or will require a surgical incision.

At first the inflammation is confined to the mucous lining, which is gradually destroyed until the infection reaches the bone. Unless free drainage is provided this becomes more and more involved, and the disease may extend into the mastoid cells. Whenever the discharge is profuse, yellowish, and pusilke, and if it has continued for a number of weeks, even intermittently, we must always suspect spreading infection to the mastoid.

Treatment consists in drainage, just as is the case with any other collection of pus elsewhere in the body. Next in importance is building the resistance to normal, which means rest, sunshine, vitamins, good food, and probably some special blood building substance. This factor is often overlooked. The power of the body to overcome disease must be raised to the highest possible point.

In chronic ear conditions attention should be given to the local inflammation in the throat. This includes not only tonsils and adenoid tissue but the openings of the Eustachian tubes and the sinuses.

The wide prevalence of measles during the last year has shown its vicious effects in thousands of cases of running ears. In many instances one or more of the bones of hearing will be destroyed. Sometimes cells from the lining of the middle ear will be shed in relatively large masses. These cells may accumulate to such an extent that pressure is exerted upon the surrounding walls and destruction of bone will result.

In most cases of chronic ear infection the hearing is impaired. At times the patient will hear better than at others, as the ear happens to be filled or cleared of discharged material. Permanent damage to hearing usually depends upon the promptness with which the infection is drained; in other words, how much destruction has occurred as the result of pressure.

The treatment of running ears should be in the hands of skilled physicians. There is so much danger of deafness, of mastoid disease, and even of brain involvement that unnecessary risks should not be invited. In some cases the discharge will not cease until the mastoid cells have been opened and cleaned out surgically.

Only through better training of specialists in the management of acute and chronic ear disease will we make any great headway against deafness. Chronic discharging ears and neglected mastoid infection lay the groundwork for total or partial loss of hearing. Not alone should experts be available, but parents required to be warned that running ears mean trouble, sometimes of a serious nature.

FEELS COLD.

A. H. W. writes: I am constitutionally cold blooded and require about five degrees more heat than the average person to be comfortable. I have no organic disease, but my blood count showed 78 per cent. I have been taking halibut liver oil and liver tablets, as well as a liver diet. My fingers and toes, particularly in cold weather, turn white, are very cold, and tingle.

REPLY:

Your poor circulation may be due to insufficient thyroid secretion, or the ovaries and adrenals may not be functioning up to normal. If the heart is doing its job properly, look first of all for some glandular deficiency. A hemoglobin of 75 per cent is too low. The anemia should be corrected.

DRY CATARRH.

Mrs. J. R. writes: My husband is bothered with dry catarrh and cannot get relief. Is there any cure?

REPLY:

The condition is sometimes associated with atrophic rhinitis. This means that the mucous membrane of the nasal passages has atrophied with resulting reduction in the production of mucus. A bit of white vaseline placed in each nostril once or twice daily should help. If this does not improve the condition a competent specialist should be consulted.

COD LIVER OIL.

P. J. writes: Would you advise an underweight and "run down" adult to take cod liver oil during the summer months?

REPLY:

If the person is out in the sunlight a great deal cod liver oil may not be needed. Otherwise it may help the condition you describe.

PROBATE OF ESTATE.

Chicago, June 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If my husband dies without leaving a will can I file claim to the estate? He has three brothers and one sister living in Europe. He is not a citizen. 2. Can his brothers and sisters file claim? 3. Who notifies them of the estate? 4. Does the Probate court deduct the amount of expense from the estate? 5. Can you estimate the expense on probate excluding attorney's fee? His property consists of a bank account, an interest in real estate, and several outstanding notes amounting to about $700. 6. Can these notes be turned over to me so I can collect? 7. He has an accident policy signed to his estate. Will the insurance company send policy to me or to the Probate court? I. W.

1. Yes.
2. Of course they can file.
3. The Probate clerk will mail the notices.
4. Yes.
5. Depends on the size of the estate, on the size of the administrator's bond, and on other facts that are not before us.
6. Obviously, it would be physically possible for them to be turned over to you. It is not clear what question you intend to ask.
7. It seems probable that they will insist on paying to an administrator.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A WILL DESIRABLE.

Chicago, June 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a farm in Illinois. The deed was already made by the abstract people when my wife and I went to Paris to pay for it. I did not notice until a short time ago that my wife was not named on the deed. I want to deed this to a relative so they will get this at my death. I want to keep this deed in my possession or give it to some one with instructions to give it to the relative at my death. I do not want to record this at the clerk's office as I might want to make a different disposition of the land. 1. How can I do this? I have other property in my own name. My wife and I also have two lots deeded to both of us. My wife has two lots on which we built a house. 2. Will I have to have an administrator appointed to settle her estate of two lots? 3. I want to have things fixed so I will not have to have an administrator appointed, but have things fixed in a legal way.

J. E. B.

1. Your desires are inconsistent with one another. It is not practicable to give a grantee a present interest in the property and also retain full control in yourself. We strongly advise against relying on an unrecorded deed. We suggest that you employ an attorney to make a will.

2. Probate will be necessary in order to produce a merchantable title unless you place the title in joint tenancy during her life.

3. We advise you to employ an attorney for this purpose.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

It was once considered abnormal for a person to be left-handed, and great trouble was taken to try to correct this. New knowledge of this field now indicates that it is just as normal to be left-handed as right-handed, and that a person who is naturally left-handed should not be trained to use his right hand most, for this unnatural shifting is likely to produce lifelong mental and emotional disturbances.

IN GRANT PARK.

Chicago, June 12.—Fellow office workers and myself were out this noon hour enjoying the life giving rays of the sun in Grant park when a police officer's voice broke in on our health treatment [we were lying down with our coats off] commanding us to sit up as the office managers in buildings across the street were complaining—about what, the officer didn't state. Maybe it's degrading their morale and that of their employés.

What I would like to know is this: Why does the police department take action on such complaints as this, knowing full well that the parks are public property and all resident citizens alike pay for their upkeep? No one was disturbing the peace or in any way doing anybody else any harm. Possibly these office managers think they have authority over their employés even on their own time and use this means of exercising that authority.

Even the police officer realized how ridiculous the order, as in passing he stated: "Next thing you know they will be telling us to keep the pigeons out."

R. D. V.

JUST ESQ.

Oak Park, Ill., June 13.—I am happy to announce that I am one of the few people left in the United States without a fictitious and unearned title. Now that movie actresses, without military experience, are appointed Kentucky colonels, and cabinet members whose legal abilities are limited to those of boxing commissioner [and what a commissioner Dr. Farley was] are made LL. D.s I wish to serve notice on the governors of Kentucky [past, present, and future] and on all the universities [correspondence and otherwise] that I will flatly refuse to accept either one of the doubtful honors. M. W. TOMLINSON.

UNCONSCIONABLE FEES.

La Crosse, Wis., June 12.—I want to compliment you upon the publicity which you have been giving Judge Barnes of the United States District court in cutting down the unconscionable fees of bondholders' committees and attorneys in the reorganization under 77B of the various real estate bond mortgages in Chicago.

It is well known that this has been a racket which only publicity can kill, and I am glad to see that Judge Barnes of the United States District court has had the moral courage to stop it.

I also see by the Memphis papers that Judge Martin of Memphis has been given a lot of favorable publicity for the work he has done in cutting out this racket.

A. T. HOLMES.

NOISE.

Chicago, June 13.—In the evening of June 12 I, and probably hundreds of Rogers Park citizens, went to bed with awful headaches caused by several horns of terrible sounds, similar to the howlings of terrific hurricanes. A neighbor tells me that these horrible sounds emanate from small automobiles racing around a track in the vicinity of Devon avenue and McCormick road. If so, can you persuade these racers to equip their cars with mufflers, or to move their track to some uninhabited region? F. P.

WHICH ONE IS NAPOLEON.

Chicago, June 10.—Orr's comic cartoon, entitled "Which One Is Napoleon?" was a knockout. The eagle in the picture didn't scream; it laughed.

WILLIAM WALTER SCOTT.

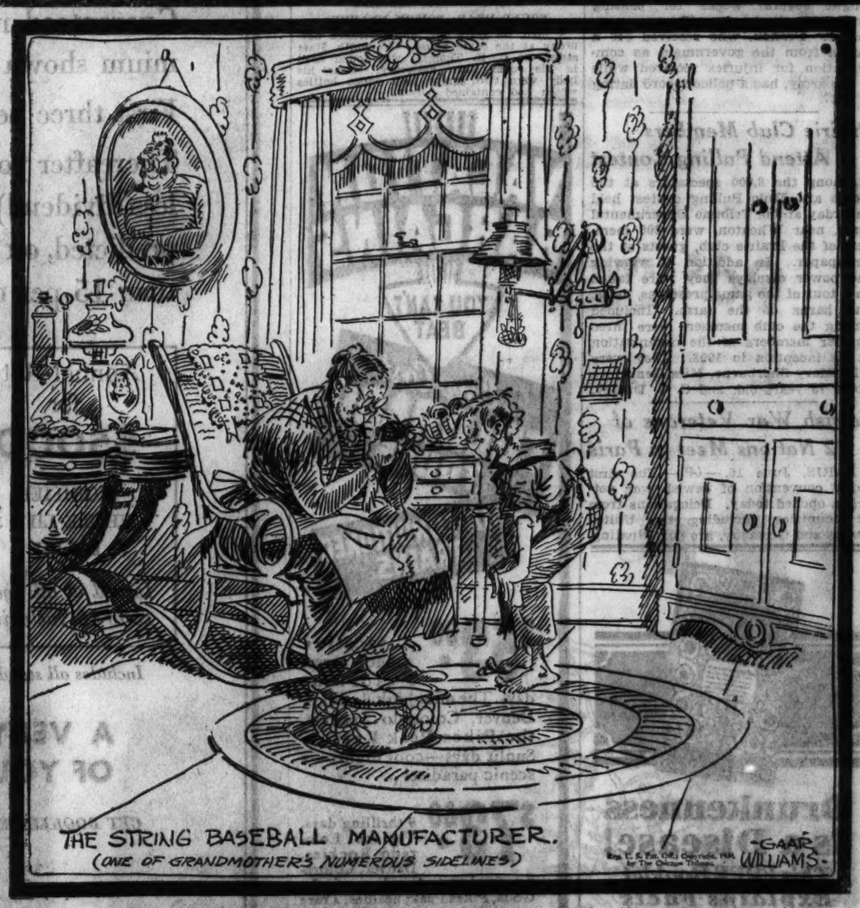
OUT OF HARM'S WAY.

Chicago, June 11.—Why not allow Father Coughlin the use of Soldiers' field? Because it is located right on the lake front, all of his hot air will have a better chance to blow over the lake back to Michigan, where it belongs. R. H. W.

Among the Folks in History

By Gaar Williams

December 12, 1880 — June 15, 1935



In this place there is no need to tell of Gaar Williams' character, for the quality of the man was fully reflected in his work. Those who knew him only through his drawings on this page could be as certain as were his intimates of his kindliness, his modesty, his humor, and his quiet enjoyment of life. In this sense tens of thousands knew him well and mourn him as a friend.

He stood in the first rank among contemporary humorists, but he was also eminent as a social historian. In the years to come those who seek to catch the quality of the period from a little before 1890 to our day will turn to his work as an important source. They will do so because of Williams' unrivaled memory for physical detail and because of the no less astonishing accuracy with which he portrayed the mind of the ordinary man of his period. Those who want to know what sort of men and women lived in the American midlands from the time of Cleveland onward to our day will find many of their questions answered in his work. They will find there the record not only of changing fashions in dress and decoration but also of changing habits of thought and behavior. As men today turn to Hogarth to recapture aspects of the England of the eighteenth century they may well turn to Williams to recapture our period. They may do so with great confidence, for Williams seldom preached and never scolded. He had no ax to grind. His affection for the people and manners of his boyhood did not lead him to an exaggeration of their virtues or to a jealous contempt of the contemporary world.

HOT DAYS NEAR; CALL MADE FOR FREE ICE FUNDS

Tribune's 22d Appeal Is Issued to Chicago.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Heat came to Chicago last week.

In cool suburban homes and in apartments swept by lake breezes it was merely welcome June warmth.

But in crowded tenement districts the warmth brought foreboding of the suffering to come to swarms of tiny children in homes without ice during the summer heat.

That was why the telephone in the office of the United Charities, the agency which administers THE TRIBUNE free ice fund, suddenly began to ring, as from the overcrowded areas of Chicago the poor began to put in their bids for summer ice.

That also is why Miss Edna Mae Wray of the Charities staf today will begin her annual allocation of ice tickets to the 10 charitable agencies and 13 district stations of the United Charities for distribution.

22d Annual Appeal.

Finally, that is why THE TRIBUNE free ice fund today is issuing its 22d annual appeal for contributions.

Last summer a total of 1,244,000 pounds of ice was given to 1,316 families through the generosity of TRIBUNE readers, aided by a $5,000 donation from the Golden Gloves. This brought the total of Tribune free ice given out during the last 21 years to 17,673,924 pounds.

Many of the free ice fund donors are children, who contribute the penny proceeds from impromptu circuses staged to while away vacation hours. Others are persons of wealth. And still others are persons who in past years themselves have benefited from the free ice tickets and now, in turn, wish to benefit others.

These to Get Tickets.

In addition to the district offices of the United Charities, institutions to whom the tickets will be allotted today for distribution are:

Aiken institute, Children's Memorial hospital, Infant Welfare society, Juvenile court, Madonna center, Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, De Paul settlement and day nursery, St. Elizabeth's day nursery, St. Rose's day nursery and the Jewish Social Service bureau.

The first ice of the summer will be bought with the $2,632.79 balance left in the fund from last year, but the continuation of it throughout the intense heat of July and August is dependent upon the response of the public to this appeal.

That appeal is based, this year as in all other years, upon the knowledge of untold hardship to come if free ice is not supplied. Contributions should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

BRITAIN COUNTS 14 WRECK TOLL AS 2D TRAIN CRASHES

LONDON, June 16.—(AP)—While rescue workers fought their way through tangled wreckage in search of further victims of a train collision at Welwyn, near London, which killed at least fourteen, another passenger train piled up near Glasgow today, injuring twenty-two persons.

[A London dispatch to The Tribune estimates that by tomorrow the Welwyn death toll will have reached 25, as several of the injured are in dying condition. First estimates of the disaster were 30 dead and 70 injured.]

The second crash occurred at Gourock when a train from Glasgow loaded with passengers bound for pleasure resorts, instead of stopping at the platform, for some unexplained reason smashed against the buffers at the end of the station track. Most of the passengers were standing, ready to get off, and were thrown into heaps on the floors of the coaches. Three persons were seriously hurt.

The Welwyn collision was Britain's worst in years. A train speeding northward with Sunday newspapers crashed into the rear of the Newcastle express, crack train which had been slowed down by signals at Welwyn station, suburban resort 20 miles from London, early this morning.

GAAR WILLIAMS' FUNERAL SERVICE THIS MORNING

Famous Tribune Artist Dies Unexpectedly.

Funeral services for Gaar Williams, famed cartoonist of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE staf, will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in Graceland cemetery chapel. Following the services the body will be cremated and the ashes taken to Richmond, Ind., for burial. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Douglas Cornell of the Glencoe Community church.

Mr. Williams died unexpectedly Saturday as he started on an automobile trip to Indiana for services commemorating the founding of the school of journalism in Indiana university.

Stricken in Automobile.

Driving with him were his wife, Mrs. Lena Williams, and a family friend, Miss Blanche Stillson of Indianapolis. At Randolph street and Michigan avenue Mr. Williams suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and slumped down in the car. He was taken to the Passavant hospital and died a few hours later without regaining consciousness.

After a career as a political cartoonist and illustrator on newspapers, Mr. Williams came to THE TRIBUNE 14 years ago. At that time he abandoned political cartooning and developed the whimsical and lovable characters on which his subsequent fame was based.

A Lovable Hoosier.

Among his own craft the artist was referred to as the "James Whitcomb Riley of the cartoon." Among some of his more famous characters and cartoons were Mort Green of "A Strain on the Family Tie," "Zipper," the little dog with the curiosity complex; "Among the Folks in History," "Our Secret Ambition," and others of the same character.

He was born Dec. 12, 1880, in Richmond, Ind., and attended school there. Later he studied at the Art institute in Chicago. He is survived by his widow and his mother.

CLIPPER PLANE MAKES SURVEY WEST OF MIDWAY

MIDWAY ISLANDS — [Via Pan-American airways radio]—June 16.—(AP)—The Pan-American Clipper plane extended its mid-Pacific conquest today to a point beyond the international date line and returned here preparatory to a takeoff tomorrow for a flight back to Honolulu.

In a four-hour hop the big plane soared over Kure island, west of Midway for more radio compass testing and for observation of possible landing places on the route between Midway and Wake island, next station on the projected trans-Pacific air line.

Capt. E. C. Musick said if the radio compass station here required no further checking he probably would get the Clipper started back to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, by 6 a. m. [1 p. m. Chicago time] tomorrow. Although the Clipper flew from Pearl harbor to Midway in 9 hours and 13 minutes yesterday, her schedule called for an 11-hour return trip to include deviations from her course required for engineering studies. The air line distance from Pearl harbor to Midway is 1,323 miles.

From 1895 to 1899 he was postmaster of Bloomington, he also was associated with Custer's army, although on detached duty at the time of the massacre. His three successive terms as Democratic representative in the state legislature constituted an unusual record.

Springfield, Mo., June 16.—[Special.]—Development of rural electrification through construction of four hydro-electric dams in the Missouri Ozarks to cost $36,500,000 has been recommended to the government by John Y. Woodruff, chairman of the regional planning board.

The four dams proposed are at Table Rock on White river, which would create one of the largest artificial lakes in the world; a dam across the Gasconade river at Arlington; the Insull dam on the north fork of White river, near West Plains, and a dam on the Niangua river, near Buffalo.

The North Fork dam was planned by the Insull interests of Chicago several years ago, but construction never was started.

DECIDE 3 LITTLE BOYS IN ICE BOX VICTIMS OF 'HIDE AND SEEK'

New York, June 16.—(AP)—Three little boys found dead in an ice box were believed today to be victims of one of childhood's most harmless pastimes, hide-and-seek.

Wedged into the three by four foot refrigerator on a truck in front of their house, the bodies of Arnold, 3; Eugene, 5, and George Jr., 7, were found early today by their father, George Hoyt, who had reported them missing Friday night.

Police, after questioning Hoyt, concurred with his theory that his sons either crawled into the ice box themselves or were hidden there by other children.

Eugene and George were in the larger lower portion of the ice box. Arnold was in the top compartment used for ice. Arnold and George had on only their trousers and Eugene was clad in his underwear.

Several outstanding personalities of stage and screen, including Irvin S. WEDDING FIRE DEATH TOLL 2; BLAME WIRING

New York, June 16.—(AP)—Flimsy electric wiring was blamed today for turning a wedding hall into an inferno in which the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Sophie Shein, 49, suffered fatal burns. The bride-to-be and 23 friends were severely burned and 59 others were injured.

Fire Marshal Thomas J. Brophy, after an investigation, laid the catastrophe to faulty wiring of electric lights which illuminated a laurel canopy beneath which the prospective bride, Miss Pearl Sokolower, 21, was sitting in state, according to Jewish custom.

At the stroke of midnight a rabbi was to have married her to Louis S. Shein, 26.

At 11 o'clock the canopy caught fire. Women and children jammed the doors in frantic efforts to flee. Others tumbled out the windows.

Paul Stricker, 21 year old college student, made four trips into the blazing building to lead children to safety. On a fifth he was burned so badly he died. Mrs. Shein died in a hospital today.

Ambulances and police cars took 25 of the more seriously burned to two hospitals.

William Nash, 75 years old, one of the oldest members of the Board of Trade at the time of his retirement two years ago, yesterday was found dead of cerebral hemorrhage in his home at 1034 Michigan avenue, Evanston, by a son, Lester. Mr. Nash was born in Bureau, Ill., and came to Chicago when he was 10 years old. He was a member of the Board of Trade for 56 years. His father, Charles T. Nash, was the head of Nash, Wright & Co., grain dealers, and the younger Nash sold his interest in the grain company in 1910. He is survived by his widow, Pauline, and three sons and two daughters. Funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow with interment in Graceland cemetery.

J.D. Richardson Is Engaged to New York Girl

Takes Elizabeth Chew as Bride July 1.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FROM Virginia, where both families have country places, comes the news of an interesting engagement, that of Miss Elizabeth Chew to John Donald Richardson II. The young lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Aldrich Chew, live in Scarsdale, N. Y., but the young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson, are Chicagoans and very popular ones, too. Young Mr. Richardson has been transferred by the business firm by which he is employed from Chicago to Denver, so after the wedding on July 1 in New York he will take his bride to the Colorado city to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and their son are at their home in Gaylord, Va., and Miss Chew and her parents are at theirs so the announcement is being made today in Virginia. The Richardsons will not return to Chicago before the wedding, for which Mr. Richardson's two sisters, Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer [Bluford Richardson] and Mrs. Walter W. Crawford [Frances Richardson] will go to New York.

Miss Chew attended the Brearley school in New York and the Ethel Walker school at Simsbury, Conn., making her debut in New York in 1931.

Mr. Richardson was graduated from the Deerfield academy in Massachusetts in 1930. He has been one of the popular young bachelors in Chicago society ever since he finished school and his friends in the smart younger set will be sorry to learn that he will not bring his bride to Chicago to live, but they will be glad to hear that there is a possibility that his stay in Denver will not be extended beyond a year or two.

Many Pre-Nuptial Parties for Miss Ellen Wacker.

The next two weeks will be gay ones for the brides of late June, and none is going to have busier days and evenings than pretty Ellen Wacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker, who will be married on the 29th to Thomas Sheffield, for in spite of the fact that she is to have no attendants at her wedding, she is being deluged with pre-nuptial parties.

The John Colemans and their daughter, Beth, entertained for her last Thursday night at the buffet dinner-dance at the Onwentsia and on Thursday, the 27th, the Byron S. Reids will entertain in a similar manner at the same club. Preceding the Reids' party the Kent Clows and their Peggy will give a cocktail party and that day, before the Lake Forest horse show, Miss Katherine McLennan will be a luncheon hostess.

Mrs. Charles F. Glore will give a luncheon at her home in Lake Forest today and Miss Peggy Hixon will entertain at luncheon next Sunday. That evening Miss Deborah Butler will give a supper party for Miss Wacker. Miss Katherine Armstrong and Miss Josephine Templeton also have planned parties for some day this week or next. On the night before the wedding at their home, Mr. and Mrs. Wacker will give the bridal dinner, really a large party.

The best man, Frederick B. Adams Jr. of New York, and many of the bride's and bridegroom's relatives will be here from the east.

Relatives Coming from East for Ceremony.

Mrs. Wacker's mother, Mrs. Spencer Jennings, arrived Saturday afternoon by airplane from her home in Greenwich to remain until after the wedding; Mrs. Wacker's sister, Mrs. Robertson Leech of Greenwich, will arrive the middle of next week; another sister, Mrs. Hugh Robertson, and her husband are coming from their home in New York the middle of this week; a cousin of the bride, Miss Mary Ida Hine of New York, also arrives the middle of this week, and another cousin, Spencer J. Leech, and his bride are flying out in their own plane the day before the wedding. Miss Wacker went east in March to be a bridesmaid at their wedding.

Mr. Sheffield's father, C. Tracy Sheffield, and his wife will come from New London, and also the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Herbert Dittler, and Mr. Dittler of New York and Old Lyme, Conn., will be here for the ceremony.

The wedding is to be a very quiet one at the Lake Forest residence of the Wackers with just the relatives present to hear the Rev. Burtis McHatton of the Presbyterian church read the service. At 5 o'clock there will be a reception to which numerous friends have been invited. Mr. Sheffield and his bride will be at home in a small apartment in town after Aug. 1.

Sail on Majestic for Summer Abroad.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne, are sailing on the Majestic on June 29 to spend the summer abroad.

Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor and her son, Melvin, who returned last week from Harvard, have gone to their summer place at the Wausaukee club in Wisconsin for the season.

Mrs. T. Philip Swift and her sister, Mrs. Dexter Cummings, will return to Lake Forest tomorrow from New York where they went to see their mother, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, sail last Thursday for England. Mrs. Hoyt is crossing with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Allen, and with them will visit the Allens' daughters, Mrs. Hugh M. Groves [Marjorie Allen Wilson] and Mrs. Oliver C. Bryson [Mildred Allen], both of whom are married to Englishmen.

Miss Carolyn Durand, formerly of Lake Forest, but now of New York and Providence, has arrived for a visit with her aunt and uncle, the Cornelius M. Trowbridges, at their home in Lake

Receive Friends' Congratulations

Kellogg Fairbank Jr. and his fiancee, Miss June Cornell of New York, pictured yesterday at the Fairbanks' country home at Lake Geneva.

Fairbank Jr. and Fiancee at Lake Geneva

MISS JUNE CORNELL and her fiancé, Kellogg Fairbank Jr., received the good wishes of a number of their friends yesterday at a luncheon his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, gave for them at their country home, the Butternuts, at Lake Geneva.

The engagement had been announced Friday afternoon at a cocktail party Miss Cornell's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Harvey, gave at their Chicago apartment, after which Mr. Fairbank Jr. and Miss Cornell left to spend the week-end at the Butternuts. Yesterday was Miss Cornell's birthday, also, so it was the occasion of congratulations for her as well as for her fiancé.

Miss Cornell, the daughter of Mrs. John Francis Cornell of New York, is a very talented young woman, being assistant to the curator of near eastern art of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City. She and "Kelly" Fairbank met when she visited the Harveys last summer, and, although he had been down to New York to see her several times since, they had been so successful in keeping their romance a secret that the engagement announcement came as a complete surprise to all but their near relatives.

The wedding is planned for some time next winter. After a month's visit with the Harveys, Miss Cornell will return to New York.

Mr. Fairbank Jr., who went to the Francis Parker school and Harvard, comes from two of Chicago's oldest and best known families. His mother is the former Janet Ayer, well known as a novelist and active in civic and political as well as philanthropic and social circles in Chicago. Both of his grandfathers, Benjamin Ayer and N. K. Fairbank, were Chicago pioneers. He has a sister, Miss Janet Fairbank, and a brother, Benjamin Ayer Fairbank.

SOME Taylorville, Ill., residents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Nichodemus, were on a trip through the Kentucky mountain country, and, upon inquiry at a filling station as to where they might find a place to eat, were told there was a place "up the road" where they could get a chicken dinner. Driving on, they passed a little shack almost hidden by the trees; but, as there was no sign out, they drove on. When they failed to find any other place they turned back. A small boy in overalls assured them they could get dinner at the shack and hallooed his daddy in from the hill. He came reluctantly, a hound dog at his heels.

Kentuckian—Artificial—Pun—Speculation.

"You ought to have a sign," said Mr. Nichodemus. "We nearly missed your place."

"Wall, I tried that for a while," said the Kentuckian, "but so danged many people stopped I had to take it down."

THE best comment on the Adler Planetarium yet reported is that of the California woman who, during a visit to Chicago, made frequent comparisons between Chicago and California phenomena, all unfavorable to Chicago. Asked if she had seen the Planetarium, she answered:

"No, I didn't go there. One of my neighbors who saw it said she had never seen anything so artificial in her life."

ONE of our favorite true stories of all time concerns the north shore woman who told a friend she was reading Ludwig's Life of Napoleon, and who, when the friend commented that she had just finished it, said hastily, "Now don't tell me how it comes out!"

She possibly would have said the same thing had she been reading Zweig's "Marie Antoinette." Edith Byrne reports a similar incident that occurred in the lobby of the Erlanger the last night of "Mary of Scotland." During the intermission after the first act, a young woman, looking searchingly at her program, said to her escort:

"I wonder if she marries Darnley."

Comic Opera Group Stages 'The Mikado'

It's Worthy of Playgoers' Interest, Says Critic.

"THE MIKADO."

The operetta by Gilbert and Sullivan, revived by the Chicago Comic Opera company in the Chicago Woman's Club theater June 16, 1935.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Chicago Comic Opera company, a group of Gilbert and Sullivan enthusiasts who have been developing their talents in operetta as amateurs for several years, are offering "The Mikado" at the Chicago Woman's Club theater this week as the last production of their season. They are perfectly at home in this classic of Anglo-Saxon light music and fantastic humor, and they give a performance that is effective according to amateur standards. I might add that these standards, so far as the Gilbert and Sullivan repertory is concerned, are fairly high, for amateur interpretation of the famous old frolics, particularly "The Mikado," has been going on all over the world for half a century.

The small stage of the Woman's Club theater seems to aid the cast in communicating the words of the tricky lyrics and polysyllabic dialog, and one may hear, understandingly, more of the text at this performance than at many professional presentations. The costuming is gay and appropriate; the male chorus is full voiced; and the principals know their business so well that they introduce, now and then, a stroke of new and effective byplay.

The Pooh-Bah of John Morton would be acceptable in a professional company. Bernard Schowalter, the singer of Nanki-Pooh, has the right lyric charm in his voice. Ko-Ko is neatly and intelligently played by Ralph J. Helperin, the director of the organization. The three little maids from school and their choral associates are somewhat weak, and the orchestra is not up to Sullivan's score in the more elaborate passages, although it has understanding direction by Alvin Heitner.

Altogether, in the total absence of professional comic opera for these evenings of June, I can recommend this treatment of "The Mikado" as worthy of playgoing interest.

Ina Claire, after a fling in her last season's play, "Ode to Liberty," in eastern summer playhouses during the first two weeks of July, will have a short spell of miming for the films in Hollywood. Next fall she will return to the stage in a play called "First Lady," written by George S. Kaufman and Katherine Dayton. It is said to be a satire on the habits of presidential wives in Washington.

Both Phil Baker, of the musical shows, and Rudy Vallee, of the crooning business, want to act Dennis King's rôle in "Petticoat Fever" on tour next season. Meanwhile Oscar Shaw has stepped into Mr. King's shoes for the rest of the play's run in New York.

New Clothes for Little Men Have Real Masculine Touch

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Summertime clothes for little sister are easy to find and always have been, but the trick is to outfit your young sons without mutiny from the young gentlemen themselves. It used to be a wild time of it between too sissy stuff that the youngsters scorned and the rather pluggy things that made a sad fashion show out of your son and heir.

Now it's different. Wander into a children's department and see clothes that will make your eyes open as well as give the boys themselves a double-header thrill.

Shirts, for instance. Did you know they came in careful and exact reproductions of big brothers and dad's? Shirts with zipper necklines, shirts with nonwiltable collars copied after the last gasp in grown-up men fashions. Shirts of cotton mesh, shirts of smooth broadcloth, and all the sport shirts.

Then the sleeping pajamas. Wild striped seersucker materials made into sleeping shorts and sleeveless slipover tops, if you please. Just the things to take to camp. And even though you reluctantly let the young man climb into long trousers, the stunt is easy with the new palm beach numbers, the linen crash affairs, and some tub models of small checks that have been copied from fine English woolen patterns.

Other trousers are the hip-zipper plus fours also of the fine checked material. And there never has been such a grand collection of all kinds of shorts. Something else to keep the very small boy happy are the snappy looking tailored white palm beach suits, the coat with a Clark Gable back, no less; with pockets, with tailored details that mark the best of the big sized stuff and a pair of brief shorts tailored as well as the coat.

And the best find of all is the sailor suit for future admirals, complete with a whistle in the pocket attached to a cord, and a regulation sailor cap with stiff visor. All of it regular he-man stuff available in sizes 2 to 10.

Fashion photograph . . . the ever popular corduroy coat without which a summer wardrobe is never complete. These new corduroy swaggers come in all pastel shades and scarlet and brown. They are made with wide, loose sleeves, pockets, and a wide belt to cinch tightly around the waistline.

Good Morning!

There just isn't ANY sense to this one—BUT—it has—

Some gorgeous girls
Some swell tunes
Some rapturous dancing

A couple of knockout ensembles—of which "The Lady in Red" is tops, AND—

Dolores Del Rio, Pat O'Brien, Glenda Farrell, Leo Carillo, and Edward Everett Horton giving to their dear public what has consistently endeared them to the hearts of same. Therefore—

One prophesies that "In Caliente" will prove a box office success.

The story—if story you can call the gay hodgepodge—concerns the peculiar, picturesque, and romantic revenge wreaked upon a magazine editor, who also writes dramatic criticisms, by a lady whom, in a gin clouded moment, he had described as "a bag of bones."

Larry MacArthur, you learn, has been for some fifteen years in what might be described as a perpetual alcoholic daze. With intelligence thus bedimmed, he is at the continuous mercy of gold diggers and what have you. TILL—

One dark night, Harold Brandon, the gentleman who with him owns and manages the New York scandal sheet, Manhattan Madness, picks him up and transfers his sodden frame to Caliente—Where—

He falls into the perfumed clutches of her who is to be his Big Moment. And who, before the preacher says the words that make them one, gives him a run for his honey.

Miss Del Rio, ecstatic, doe-eyed, slim and graceful as ever, is elusive and charming in both her dancing and romancing. Pat O'Brien proves a pleasingly virile foil.

The patios of the Agua Caliente hotel were used for all exteriors.

Mexican observers may rebel at twin ideas conveyed by the film. One—that natives of Caliente only spik English when it pays them to do so—and provide music for the sole purpose of persuading goaded quiet desirers into bribing them to be quiet.

But—as I told you, the piece hasn't any sense. Why MacArthur and Brandon—NEWSPAPER MEN—are shown as having unlimited funds! Shucks!

See you tomorow!

The Ortega Feud

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Chris Jackson is sent by Bill Benton, new sheriff of Monterey county, to put an end to the Ortega-Alvado feud, which has resulted in numerous murders. Both families believe California to be still Spanish and want Americans kept out. Pietro Sanchez runs the general store of the Big Sur valley. While calling there Chris encounters Guido Ortega, Ramon, his dare-devil son, and Ysabel, his beautiful, sad eyed niece. He falls in love with Ysabel at first sight, and has a quarrel with Ramon and publicly spanks him. Chris outfits himself for a supposed lion hunting expedition. He receives a note sent by messenger from Ysabel Ortega, hinting of a mysterious danger, begging his aid, and asking him to meet her in a fortnight. Chris camps in a canyon on the northern boundary of the Alvado ranch. A shot from an unseen hand gives him warning to leave. He is saved by Rocky, an old Indian hunter, who advises him to leave the country. Next day Chris meets Francesca Alvado, flirtatious Spanish beauty, who warns him her father welcomes no strangers.

INSTALMENT VII.

PROTECTION ASSURED.

Francesca Alvado flashed one inquiring glance into Chris's quizzical blue eyes, then, with a slow smile, yielded the reins to him and followed him to the rocky ledge.

"For just this once, then," she sank gracefully down and made a place for Chris beside her. "What harm can it do, since we will never meet again?"

"Why won't we?" Chris demanded. "I hope this will only be the first of many meetings."

A flash of real alarm showed in her eyes. "No, señor! I am not joking when I say my father allows no one beyond this point. You must leave at once. My father's orders to all vaqueroes are to shoot first and ask questions after; only there never is an 'after.' Our vaqueroes shoot straight!"

"That so?" Chris's jaw tightened. "Just where does your father's property begin?"

"Right here, where we are sitting; at this canyon."

"Of course he has a right to say who shall come on his own land," Chris pondered aloud, "but the law doesn't allow him to murder any one for the act of trespassing."

"Law?" Francesca Alvado drew herself up scornfully. "My father's word is the only law here."

"That so?" Chris's tone indicated a mild surprise, but nothing more. The time was not yet ripe to dispute this assertion. "I'd kind of figured this was all part of the state of California."

Chris laughed in spite of himself in her haughty disdain. "Just as you say! But it's some state, all the same!" He sobered up. "About that trespassing, though. I don't aim to force myself anywhere I'm not welcome,

"You mean you actually spanked him?" impulsively seizing his hand.

but I'm here on a hunting trip and I've located my camp in this canyon. I take it your father doesn't own beyond this rim?"

"No," she admitted, "but just the same he will not allow you to stay there."

"That's something different. No man orders me off any place where I have as much right as he has." There was no mistaking the grim determination of Chris' tone, but he smiled as he added, "You see, Señorita Francesca, I was right, and this is the first of many meetings, when I am to be so near a neighbor."

"Just why do you come down here on a hunting trip? Have you not heard that it is dangerous country, this?" Her dark eyes challenged his with unbelief in his avowed purpose for being there.

"Dangerous?" Chris echoed. "How do you mean 'dangerous'?"

"You know well enough what I mean. I do not believe that you are here for a hunting trip. You are nere as a spy! Good! Find out then, which of the Ortegas killed my brother!"

Chris met her flashing eyes with disarming frankness. "Of course I have heard about the Ortega-Alvado feud, but I thought the reports were greatly exaggerated. You mean to say your brother actually was killed?"

"Shot down like a dog!" Her voice broke. "But they will pay! Already they have paid and they will pay more!"

"Have you other brothers?"

"Two, señor; Guido and José. But Pietro was the youngest and the best beloved of us all. So now you see why it is war, señor. War to the death! And no strangers must intrude."

"Have you any sisters?" Chris ignored the reference to strangers as he pressed on to get all the information he could.

"No. I am the only girl. Would I were a boy, so I could avenge my brother myself! Now, señor, that I have told you so frankly why you must hunt elsewhere, you will go, will you not?"

Chris shook his head. "I am not in the habit of running away. I am sorry, señorita, for your loss; but why don't you call on the sherif of the county to avenge your brother?"

"The Alvados do not depend on sherifs for their revenge!" Francesca, Alvado stood up, and stretched out her hand to take the reins from Chris. "I have warned you, señor; if you stay it is at your own risk."

"Wait a minute," Chris held on to the reins, bending his blue eyes on her with flattering intensity, "if this is to be our only meeting, at least you can make it a bit longer. You have not told me anything about yourself."

She shook her head, with another apprehensive look at the distant hacienda, but her eyes lighted with their former provocative glint, which the mention of her brother temporarily blotted out.

"Not now; but, perhaps, if you are so foolish as to stay——" her eyes gave the promise that the unfinished sentence left unsaid.

"Look here! Why can't I come and see your father?" Chris yielded the reins to her, as a sudden inspiration struck him. "I have an idea he might be interested to hear of my meeting with Señor Ortega."

"You have met the Ortegas?" She gazed at him with dilating eyes.

"Well, in a manner of speaking. I ran across the señor and his son Ramon in Pietro Sanchez's store. Ramon wasn't any too civil, so I reckoned he needed a lesson. He was too little for me to fight him, and I wasn't outfitted with knives the way he was, so I just turned him over my knee and spanked him."

"You—you mean you actually spanked him?" She gasped finally, of his meeting with the Ortegas, and one emotion after another fought for mastery in their black depths—suspicion, amazement, horror, unbelief. But as he reached his climax, wild, uncontrollable laughter shook her until she leaned weakly against her mount gasping for breath and unable to say anything without going off in fresh gales of merriment.

Chris grinned as he waited for her to recover enough to make a coherent comment.

"You— you mean you actually spanked him?" She gasped finally, impulsively seizing his hand.

"O yes, you must tell my father that! You are no longer a stranger. Come back with me now to the hacienda!" She broke off with renewed peals of laughter. "What wouldn't I have given to have seen his face.. Wait until my brothers hear of it! I——" she broke off suddenly and gazed at Chris with a new and wondering admiration. "And after that, you dared to come down into this country? You are indeed brave! And the Alvados welcome you!"

"Here! Wait a minute," Chris hastened to say. "I'm not taking any sides in this feud! I'm just telling you what happened."

"Come and tell my father!" Francesca put a dainty foot in the hand Chris held out to help her mount and sprang lightly into the saddle. "Come at once!"

Chris shook his head. "I can't come now, but I'll be over this afternoon if you will guarantee your father won't shoot me at sight!"

"He will embrace you," Francesca proclaimed.

"Whether you wish it or not, as long as you stay here you are under the protection of the Alvados. O, to have seen Ramon Ortega's face!"

She touched her mount and was off at an easy lope, her laughter floating back as she headed across the range to the distant hacienda.

Chris watched the gracefully erect figure in the side saddle, her black riding habit in startling contrast to the white pony that carried her. Just once she turned and waved to him before she was lost to sight in a dip in the hills.

"She's some beauty, all right," Chris murmured as he turned toward the canyon, "but she's as different from Ysabel Ortega as—as——" words failed him for an adequate comparison, and he lapsed into silence as he negotiated the difficult descent.

Once arrived at the creek bed, Chris made his way back to his camp, a dreamy abstraction in his eyes as he measured in his mind the two girls who had come too surprisingly into his life.

Actress' Hair Dyed Blue So It Will Film Gray

Janet Beecher Undergoes Unusual Makeup.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 16.—[Special.]—Janet Beecher's hair has been dyed cobalt blue. She's playing with Merle Oberon, Fredric March, and Herbert Marshall in "The Dark Angel" at United Artists. Her hair was dyed this unusual hue because the makeup men decided that was the best color so that it would photograph a soft gray.

Sam Goldwyn has borrowed Edward G. Robinson from Warner studio to play the political boss of the San Francisco Montgomery street bad lands in "Barbary Coast." Miriam Hopkins and Joe L. McCrea have the other leads.

David Manners, born in Halifax, N. S., is applying for his final citizenship papers. . . . Claire Trevor is out of the hospital after several weeks' treatment for laryngitis followed by a tonsil operation, and the Fox troupe making "Beauty's Daughter" with Miss Trevor as the lead can now resume film work after a long layoff. . . . Bing Crosby's way of celebrating "Father's day" was to stage a party for his three children at Rancho Santa Fe where he has an estate. . . . Marlene Dietrich caused great excitement at Hollywood hospital yesterday when she came in bearing a package and huge bouquet. Her visit proved to be to Capt. Paul Wing, U. S. A., retired, and father of Toby Wing, who was one of the victims of the Macon, Mo., air crash which resulted fatally to U. S. Senator Cutting. Marlene's package contained beef broth she cooked herself [as she often does] from a recipe considerably admired among movie colony housewives.

A dinner was held in Father Gilroy's honor at the Auditorium hotel following the service. The Rev. Peter McIntyre, of the Dominican House of Studies, River Forest, presided as toastmaster and the principal speaker was the Very Rev. T. S. McDermott, of New York, provincial of the Dominican order.

Chicago Culver Club Party at Drake Friday.

As soon as news leaked out that the Chicago Culver club was going to have a dance—and before announcements could be mailed out—the committee was "snowed under" with reservations so there wasn't any need to send out the 1,000 cards that had been printed. The party is to be on Friday night at the Drake and among the young wives of Culver alumni who are helping with arrangements are Mrs. William Rufus Abbott Jr. and Mrs. Charles Connell.

The annual Fort Sheridan horse show is to be held on Sept. 20 and 21 and a horse show ball will be given at the Officers' club on the post on Saturday evening, the 21st. Maj. Gen. Frank R. A feature of the exhibition will be a special Olympic team sweepstakes in the jumper class, 50 per cent of the proceeds to go toward paying the expenses of the U. S. Army team to the Berlin Olympics in 1936.

Sept. 23 has been chosen by the North Avenue Day nursery board as the date for its annual benefit ball and Mrs. Theron Chapman and Mrs. Robert McKenna have been appointed co-chairmen of the committee in charge. Mrs. William Cox is the new president of the board; Mrs. John Beadle, vice president; Miss Honor Merrell, secretary, and Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr., treasurer.

Bishop Perry Coming for Ceremonies Here in Honor of Stewart

The Rt. Rev. James D. Wolf Perry, of New York, presiding bishop of the American Episcopal church, will arrive in the city tomorrow to participate in the celebration tomorrow of the fifth anniversary of the elevation of Bishop George Craig Stewart, of the Chicago diocese, to the episcopate.

This service will be held in St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston, and will simulate the original service of consecration held five years ago. In addition to recognizing Bishop Stewart's anniversary, the service will also form a part of the observance of the centenary of the founding of the local diocese.

Bishop Warren Lincoln Rogers, of Cleveland, O., will be tomorrow's preacher. Tomorrow night a centennial achievement dinner will be held at the Sherman hotel when reports on pledges to the million dollar centennial fund will be heard. It is estimated that more than $500,000 in pledges and cash will be reported.

Other bishops who will take part in the celebrations include the Rt. Rev. Charles E. Woodcock, of Louisville, Ky., and the Rt. Rev. Harry Moore, of Dallas, Tex.

"Cooking After Office Hours," a booklet of tips and recipes for business girls who cook, is on sale at the Tribune's Public Service office, One South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Perhaps we cooks need a little prodding occasionally just to keep us from getting too much engrossed in our everlasting routine of standardized meals. Anyway we found a bit of food news the other day that brought back exciting memories of the days when Robinson Crusoe was our favorite hero, and decided to pass it along for its possible value in planning an amusing summer salad or dessert.

It seems that Capt. Phillips Lord recently returned from a two year cruise of poking into out-of-the-way corners of the earth. Early this year he dropped anchor at Floriana, a little island of the Galapagos group in the south seas. There he interviewed Dr. Frederich Ritter, German scholar and writer, and Frau Dora, with whom the doctor had fled from civilization.

Together with the fascinating story of their life on the island—that they roamed about in the nude except when an occasional ship dropped anchor in the tiny harbor; that the doctor had replaced their teeth with plates made from bone and shark teeth, and that they lived in the solitude of scholarly reflection on the island from which the tragic Baroness Eloise de Wagenar-Bosquet disappeared, leaving her three lovers dead—Lord learned the recipe for the food that had sustained them through the eternal tropical heat.

To quote Capt. Lord: "Besides their breakfast, which consisted of four papaia, a native fruit they picked from the trees and ate when they arose at dawn, they had only one meal a day—and that at noon. However, it was unusually nutritious and it had a flavor exciting to the palate."

The description of that dish was this: "Dr. Ritter prepared it by gathering six ripe bananas, forcing them through a sieve, and then adding to the mash the whites of two raw eggs. This was beaten for about ten minutes until it had become a creamy fluff. Next the doctor made a small pot of cocoa (the equivalent of two cups) and to it he added about two tablespoons of ground coffee. After the liquor had brewed and been strained the banana and egg was eaten by spooning a portion into the cocoa and coffee."

Although the mixture sounds a bit strange, it seems that Dr. Ritter and Frau Dora had lived on it for years. They appeared healthy and told Capt. Lord that they never had a craving for anything else.

Since it behooves a cooking editor to be practical, we found that the dish really has possibilities for the more civilized dining table. A few tablespoons of the cocoa-coffee brew, strained, can be whipped into the banana fluff the whole chilled in the refrigerator and the delicately flavored result served as a sweet salad, on lettuce, or as a dessert topping for sponge cake or angel food.

Cool Simplicity for Summer

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

One never can have too many washable dresses for summer, and this one should appeal instantly. It is a one piece dress, with no sleeves set in. Instead, there are the cool, capelet ones that are cut in one with the shoulders. Gay plaid voile, in Copenhagen blue, with crisp, white organdy sleeves, made the original of this smart dress, and you couldn't make a better choice, for it is cool.

The pattern, No. 3307, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We hate to be crabbing all the time about blood red nail polishes—and since no one pays much attention, we don't know exactly why we bother. But it's all brought to mind now that the sandal season is upon us. Personally, we think the only thing worse than a flaming, gory red on finger tips is a flaming, gory red on toes. However, those who wish to paint their toes will go right on doing it—and heaven knows they're aided and abetted by the nail polish makers.

You don't need us to tell you about polishes. No one could count all of those on the market and it would even be difficult to count the shades. If you want a dark polish, you'll have no difficulty finding one.

What we want to get over today is this: Enameling toes is a perfectly ghastly business when the feet themselves aren't all they should be. If you want to call attention to your feet all we ask is that you have the feet worth looking at once they catch the beholder's eye.

Just two days ago, at one of those country parties where every one shows up in sports frocks and sandals, we looked at feet. Few of them were anything to look at. One woman, in particular, with toes all cramped and corn ridden and misshapen from years of neglect and too short shoes, hadn't been able to resist the urge to stain her toes. What sandal she wore was a few flimsy scraps, her stockings were as sheer as gossamer threads could make them and her blood red tipped toes were a grotesque attempt at chic. Something was awfully wrong somewhere.

Here, then, is a plea for foot healthifying before gaudy foot beautifying. Give the chiropodist the first break.

LOST FAT
BECAUSE SHE HEEDED DOCTOR'S ADVICE
And Didn't Listen to Gossiping Neighbors!

Mrs. H. H. Long of Clarinda, Iowa, writes: "Kruschen was recommended to me by my doctor. Weight when starting was 226. Weight now after 3 jars is 208. Doctor says I'm doing fine."

When Kruschen Salts is prescribed by reputable physicians to safely take off fat and greatly improve health—why listen to gossipers who don't want you to be slender? Envious!

Have a mind of your own—get a jar of Kruschen today (lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle). Take a half teaspoonful in a cup of hot water every morning—tastes fine with juice of half lemon added. If you don't feel years younger—money back.

Arrange Bed for Baby on Long Auto Trips

Motor Crib, Basket, or Even Carton May Be Used.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Babies shouldn't go on journeys. The home baby with his regular routine of sleep, rest, exercise, quiet, food, baths, and so forth is the happiest, healthiest, and safest.

But there may be reasons that outweigh these considerations. You may be pining to visit the home folks and show them your adorable new baby. Or your husband's father may be so impatient to see his only grandson that you cannot wait until he is much bigger before his grandfather can see him. Or you may be fortunate enough to be able to get away from the city for a long, lovely country sojourn.

So if you have decided to go on a journey with the baby let's discuss the best way to do it and the things that you will need. Today's article is for the automobile journey. A later article will be written on the train journey.

If your journey is only for a day and you go by automobile everything is much simplified.

Of course, to begin with, you will not carry the baby. He is much cooler and more comfortable in a basket—not to mention your own comfort and coolness. There are many contraptions on the market for this purpose: Motor cribs, canvas baby beds, small hammocks, and that old standby—the market or clothes basket. A basket with a handle is the most convenient. If you cannot afford these a heavy carton or cardbox box can be used and a thin mattress, a hair pillow, or a blanket can be laid on the bottom. A thin rubber or oil silk sheet is placed over this and the usual coverings will also be needed. For the older baby it is possible to buy auto chairs.

It is well to have with you thin cheesecloth or netting to protect the baby from dust, dirt, and insects.

Of course you will drive carefully and not too fast.

Dress the baby as simply and lightly as the weather permits, but be sure to have additional clothing at hand, for summer weather is an uncertain thing.

Keep the baby to his schedule as much as possible, even if it interferes with the mileage you may want to pile up. A rested, well, and contented baby is better than a few more miles added to your day's quota. Take him out of his crib every once in a while so that he does not get cramped, and let him exercise a bit. Wash his hands and face frequently if it is too hot or the road is dusty—that is always refreshing. A brisk rub or massage of the body and arms and legs can be restful.

Be sure that he has his usual drinks of boiled water.

If your baby is old enough to sit up and there is any glare or too much sun, a sunbonnet or cap can be used to shade his eyes. He should be protected from drafts and from sun and wind burn.

Traveling with the baby by train and the baby's food when he travels will be covered in other articles this week.

If you missed all the articles on toilet training, they may now be had on receipt of DOUBLE postage and a self addressed envelope.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

TWO ANECDOTES.

The following anecdote, which is supposed to have actually occurred, treats of a Los Angeles bridge expert. This gentleman had the failing of many of the eastern elect in that he used to suffer a relapse every time a difficult hand turned up. For what seemed like hours to his weary opponents, he would weigh every possibility carefully before touching a card. During this brown study period it was as much as a cohort's life was worth to disturb the master.

One day the expert painfully arrived at a six spade contract. The minute the dummy went down he was kind enough to inform his adversaries that the hand would probably take quite a bit of figuring.

"Let us know when you're ready," they said briskly, getting up and leaving the expert alone with his thoughts.

Fifteen minutes later the master believed that he was beginning to see daylight at last. The question was whether East had four or six clubs. He was just doping out a play that would cover both distributions, when there was a terrific earthquake shock, a rumbling of the building, and the master found himself on the floor with the remnants of the chair wrapped around his neck.

Angrily addressing an unseen Providence, the expert shouted:

"This has gone far enough! How many times have I told you not to disturb me when I'm planning the play of a hand?"

I almost hesitate to include this other story. It seems a shame to brush away the cobwebs that girt it around; but somewhere, somehow, there may be an individual who has not yet heard it. It deals with a timid, shrinking soul and his Amazonian partner.

After sorting his cards, the mild mannered one bid a club. His partner responded with one heart. He ventured two clubs. "Two hearts," said his partner. He tried again and his partner took out to three hearts. The man wasn't to be stopped, however. Despite the stony glares his partner was directing at him, he went back to his own suit at the level of four.

His partner folded her cards quietly and placed them on the table. Leaning forward, she said with chill emphasis:

"I bid the fourth and final heart."

Expert Advice on Coiffure Is Necessity to All Women

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One hairdresser, with a distinguished clientele, said to me recently that he didn't believe long hair would see a widespread popularity until the younger generations forget the unsightly knobs and general dressing of long hair on exhibit today.

"Of course, there are exceptions," he said. "I have several clients who wouldn't be half so distinguished if it weren't for their long hair. But they're the kind of women with the head and throat shaped for it. But, more important, they will permit a hairdresser to infuse into the long locks modern features of hairdressing." Which he explains to be granting the hairdresser the permission to thin out these long haired heads and to adopt the up off the neck style of dressing.

It's true, too, that many women would look smarter if they would let the hairdressers do just the two above mentioned things with their hair. A woman with a short, thickish neck needs that lift of her coiffure in the back. The woman with a hint or more of a doubling chin minimizes the chin thickness when the same note of thickness is taken up off the back of the neck. The argument should revolve mostly around getting a smart outline of head and a younger looking one.

It's curious how women will talk about reducing and often see their talk through in actual accomplishment, yet overlook this quick and easy, hair thinning way of giving the illusion of fewer pounds. Really, the thick and bushy head, besides always being unruly the day after a wave, does make the head contour look wider and thicker and the face much fatter. And you know how often a woman with a thin face will be thought slight, yet her hips may be inches and inches beyond her normal proportions. So the head outline only is not important for its own sake, but for the silhouette's reputation.

Recently I saw, in the salon of the hairdresser mentioned above, a quick rejuvenation in which the long haired client seemed to drop pounds and years. She graciously submitted to a great thinning out of her hair and also submitted to a coiffure arrangement that not only raised all of the hair up off the neck in the back, but gave her head a lovely shape.

Adviser Warns Youth Against Leaving Home

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Don't run away from home, Anna!

You tell, in your letter, that your family misunderstands you, and that your life is miserable. Just try running away from home and you'll find out what real misunderstanding is and how miserable a 17½ year old girl can be alone out in the world. Folks would begin misunderstanding you immediately. They'd say you were a wild one to have left the parental roof so early. You wouldn't find people putting themselves out trying to understand your complicated young reasoning.

You wouldn't find people eager to take you in and give you a home. You'd have a horrible time, right now, trying to find a job. With your inexperience you wouldn't get one. There are too many experienced workers out of employment now for one of your kind to get even a "look-in." Always, too, there would be the question: "Where do you live?"

Of course, young one, you are misunderstood at home and what you say about being miserable is true, too, probably. Just like you, a good many of the rest of us, with rebellion seething in our souls, felt at 17 or thereabouts that our families were constituted by some unwise providence to make life as miserable as possible for us. You're not the first girl who nursed thoughts of getting out from under it all.

But the girls who didn't go through with the ridiculous planning of escape began to figure out that maybe they were at fault themselves. They just had sense enough to realize that a whole family couldn't get down on one unless she were a difficult young vixen to get long with. When they began looking into their own souls for the reason for all the trouble there they found it in stubbornness, perhaps willfulness, objection to discipline, and just downright orneriness as only the 'teens can wish it on well meaning parents.

Come now, Anna, and just take a peek at yourself in one of those self-revealing mirrors. See where you err and, when you find out, be a good sport enough to go on in and tell your mom what a holy terror you think you've been. And then watch the dark clouds roll up and away.

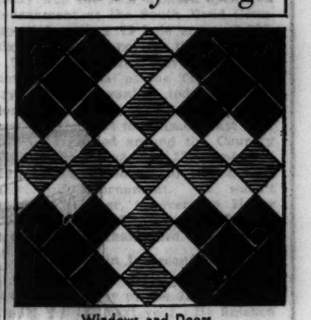
Distinctive Quilt Has Simple but Lovely Design



Windows and Doors.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Another of those grandly simple quilt blocks is a really old one called "Doors and Windows." It was made in the first quarter of the 18th century by the wife of a minister in Connecticut for use as an everyday quilt. The dark browns of the period served for the doors, while the windows in the center were composed of various gayly colored scraps salvaged from a well worn dress or cravat.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BREAK MUNGO'S VICTORY STRING WITH NINE HITS

O'Dea, Galan Lead Attack.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 16.—Long suffering Tex Carleton, who hadn't won a ball game since he licked the Dodgers here on May 15, came out of the swamp this afternoon. He not only presided at a 6 to 2 Cub victory in the second game of the series but he had the pleasure of slapping down the great Van Mungo, who was after his tenth victory of the year, not to mention a third successive shutout.

The victory gave the Cubs a record of five triumphs in six games with the Dodgers this year and increased their hold on a first division berth over the Dodgers, whom they supplanted, to two full games. The Chicagoans now have won five of the eleven contests played since they left Wrigley field and five out of eight played against eastern teams.

Continue to Hit.

The Cubs continued their hitting, with nine genuine smacks off Mungo, including two doubles by Augie Galan and one by Chuck Klein. Ken O'Dea continued a heavy offensive factor with a pair of singles. Bill Jurges made only one hit, but it was a single with the bases full and the score tied at 2 all. Since they came east and were lectured by Vice President Grimm the team has made 96 hits in eight games.

Stan Hack was retired once today, and that once was the only time in his last 12 trips to the plate. Going into today's game with a record of seven straight hits and one crack in the back with a pitched ball, Stan walked his first time up, stole second and scored the first run of the game on O'Dea's single. He flied to Taylor his second time up, but walked again in the fifth inning. He singled in the seventh, again stole second, and reached third on an error, but couldn't get home.

The Cubs for the second successive day gained on the Pirates and Cards. However, they still are 8½ games out of first place.

Cubs Score Early.

The teams came out of the first inning tied at 1 all. Hack walked with two down in the Cub half, stole second and scored on O'Dea's single to center. Lindstrom flied to Koenecke. Boyle opened the Dodgers' half with a triple past Lindstrom. It was a normal single, but the ball hit a large clod and bounded high into the air just as Freddy was about to grab it. Boyle held third while Herman was throwing out Jordan. Bucher bounced to Herman and Boyle beat Bill's throw to the plate. Leslie beat out an infield single, Bucher stopping at second. Taylor flied to Klein, then Bucher was caught napping off second and was run down, Carleton to Hack.

The Cubs made another run on one hit in the second inning. Klein led off with a double to right center, went to third on Cavarretta's out and scored on Jurges' fly to Boyle. Carleton flied to Koenecke.

Five batters who faced Carleton in the second inning and third couldn't get the ball out of the infield. Then Jordan doubled to left center and scored the tying run on a Texas leaguer which Bucher dropped in center. Carleton threw out Leslie.

Bill Socks One.

O'Dea was hit by a pitched ball at the start of the fourth and landed on second while Lindstrom was beating out a bunt. The runners moved up on Klein's sacrifice, then Cavarrettta was given an intentional pass to fill the bases.

Jurges socked Mungo's first pitch for a single to center, O'Dea and Lindstrom scoring and Cavarretta stopping at second. Carleton fanned and Galan was called out on strikes.

Herman opened the fifth with a line single to right and Hack walked on four pitches. The bases were full when O'Dea beat out a bunt. Lindstrom tapped into a double play, Frey to Jordan to Leslie, Herman scoring. Jordan threw out Klein.

Galan opened the seventh with a double over Taylor's head, went to third

RAIN STOPS SOX, YANKS IN FOURTH BEFORE 50,000

New Yorkers' 8-0 Lead Washed Out.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Luck that was good and bad, depending on the viewpoint, hit the White Sox and Yankees yesterday before they could come to even one decision in their scheduled double-header at Comiskey park. A deluge, driven by a high powered wind, swept across the premises, drenched the better portion of 50,000 spectators and definitly ended the show after one Sox batter had taken his turn at the plate in the fourth inning.

The luck was good so far as the Sox percentage rating was concerned. The rain intervened just in time to wipe out what appeared to be a sure defeat and also to erase a collection of fancy base hits the Yankees had collected off Ted Lyons. They were leading by 8 to 0 when play was suspended. But the luck was bad from the viewpoint of the treasury department of the two clubs. Failure to complete four and one-half innings made the rain checks good for future dates or refund.

Drunk Entertains Fans.

Before surrendering to the elements the umpires in charge played the string to the limit. They waited for more than an hour, during which an inebriated gentleman amused the crowd and converted himself into a sartorial wreck by exhibiting in the rôle of a man for whom mud held no terrors. After the hour's delay, with the rain slowed down to a shower, fifty gallons of gasoline were burned at two spots on the gumbolike infield. This accomplished no good, so Brick Owens, umpire in chief, gave up for keeps exactly one hour and forty minutes after the last ball had been pitched.

The cloudburst came on with such suddenness that the ground crew found itself foiled in an attempt to drag forth the tarpaulins. One of the three big sections was unrolled with the players themselves assisting, but that's as far as the effort went. The rain beat the canvas so flat against the earth that it couldn't be budged. Meanwhile box seat holders and bleacher bugs stampeded for cover, but there wasn't enough shelter for all. Some of the latter, and even hundreds of those in the unreserved sections of the grandstand, had been present since 10 o'clock in the morning, when the gates were opened.

Lyons, Tietje Pounded.

The eight Yankee runs, not to mention thirteen hits that will never get into the record book, were off Ted Lyons and Les Tietje.

The league leaders started on the Sox veteran in the first inning, but he dodged a run until the second. He got by the third despite two more hits which raised the enemy total to six, but in the fourth he was crushed completely and before Tietje could conclude the inning seven runs had crossed the plate. Then Haas opened the home fourth with a two-bagger to right for the second Sox hit off Charles Ruffing. That's as far as the game progressed.

Two of the Yankees have reason to feel doubly displeased about the elements. One was Lou Gehrig. He was at bat in the fourth when Tietje rushed in to aid Lyons. Lou promptly sailed the ball into the right field seats, with a mate on base. That made his eighth homer of the season, but he's now back to seven. Frankie Crosetti suffered a similar loss. He drilled a homer into the left field pavilion for the first two runs of the cluster of seven.

Phelps Pitches Today.

Babe Phelps, who was all primed for an appearance in the second game yesterday, will have his workout this afternoon. Vito Tamulis, the lefty, probably will start for the Yankees. Only one game will be played, and it will be the same tomorrow. The two washouts of yesterday will be scheduled for the Yanks' next trip here. Manager Dykes didn't want to play them at this time, and admitted the reason. He hasn't enough pitchers.

Yesterday's turnout, the actual paid of which was 48,100, was the third around the 50,000 mark since Comiskey park was enlarged. The largest attendance was in June of 1933, when 54,000 saw the Yanks and Sox in a Sunday double-header.

Sure, and Scrappin' Comes Natural to Those Braddocks!

[This is the first of a series of articles on the life and career of James J. Braddock, new heavyweight boxing champion.]

BY JACK MILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 16.—Sure the Braddocks and the O'Tooles were kings of Ireland, so what is more natural than that James Jay Braddock should be the heavyweight champion of the world today? A fine broth of a boy, who was good enough to pin back the ears of that harlequin of the prize ring, Maxie Baer, the breadwinner of the Braddocks has everything coming his way these days.

The current counterpart of the immortal John L. Sullivan, who slugged his way with his own sturdy fists from the relief rolls to riches, wears his honors modestly and seems a bit dazed by being catapulted from the ranks of the nonentities into an international front page figure by forty-five minutes of laudable leather tossing in Madison Square Garden bowl Thursday evening.

One of Joe's Boys.

So while Braddock is thumbing his movie, radio, and advertising offers, which should net him a fortune during the next few months, let us peer behind the scenes and scrutinize the background of the Jersey boxer.

The 29 year old son of Joe Braddock, a white haired old fellow, who in his 70s earns his living as a night watchman on a North river pier, and Elizabeth O'Toole, once the fairest colleen of County Galway, James Jay is a throwback to his sturdy Celtic ancestry.

A Jerseyman by adoption, Jim Braddock was born in Hell's Kitchen, in a rickety tenement on 49th street at 11th avenue. He was one of seven children, and he weighed 17½ pounds when he came into the world. One brother, Ralph, 36, is a yardmaster in the Weekhawken depot of the New York Central. Another, Joe, 34, is a milkman in Hudson county, N. J. A third, Jack, 32, is a bookkeeper in a New Jersey brewery—a calling that rugged Jim secretly regards a bit sissified. Al Braddock, 26, and the baby of the family, is a wheelman on a ferryboat. Jim also has two married sisters—Helen and Julia.

Old Joe Braddock was a piano mover when his children were growing, and it is his boast that he could carry a baby grand on his broad back up three flights of stairs and not pause for breath. When Jim was an infant he settled with his family in North Bergen, N. J., and the champion came to regard Jersey, rather than that rough and ready territory in the shadow of Madison Square Garden, as his real home.

"The going was tough when I was a kid," Baer's conqueror told this writer, "and I had to fight like hell for everything I got! Having three older brothers, I usually wound up with the castoff clothes and worn shoes that Ralph, Joe, and Jack tossed me.

Dad Could Hit.

"The Braddocks always fought. My father was a handy fellow with his fists back in the old country. He used to hang around the boxing booths at the country fairs and stiffen these pound-a-round pros. He still boasts that he once knocked out a horse with a blow between the eyes, but sometimes I suspect maybe he picked on a pony. My uncle was famous as the best rough and tumble fighter in all Ireland. My brother Joe first interested me in boxing. Joe was a terrific slugger and he fought professionally for a while.

"I scored my first knockout when I was 10 years old. My victim was Elmer Furlong. He's a gas station attendant now. I chilled Elmer in the playground of St. Joseph's parochial school in West New York. We got into an argument over a handball game and he made a pass at me. Elmer was the first fellow I ever hit and I brought him down with a right hand punch. His head hit a concrete walk and he was out for an hour before a doctor revived him. I was scared stiff, because I thought I'd killed poor Elmer, but we became friends and I could hear him rooting for me when I fought Baer the other night."

Black Eyes for Two Years.

"Another of my schoolmates, a boy named Johnny Morris, used to pick on me. I was a skinny kid in those days and Johnny was a powerful cuss. We had thirty-two fights and we split them pretty evenly, but they were bloody battles and I wore black eyes for a couple of years. My dad used to take a great interest in my school battles. When I lost a fight I was afraid to go home, because I knew the old man would give me a thrashing if he found out I finished second!"

LOUIS EXPECTS TO STOP CARNERA IN FIVE ROUNDS

Ex-Golden Glover Works on New Right Swing.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 16.—Joe Louis, 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, who meets Primo Carnera at Yankee Stadium June 25, predicted today he would stop the huge Italian in five rounds or less. That is six rounds less than it took Max Baer, who surrendered his title to Jim Braddock last Thursday night, when Baer and Carnera met a year ago.

This prediction came at a confab with newspaper men before Louis engaged in his afternoon workout before 1,000 spectators, many of whom palpably came from Harlem for the occasion. Louis, not prone to prediction unless badgered into it, was asked, "Can you spot the round in which Carnera will be through?"

Louis hesitated, then replied, "No, I can't spot the round. I hope it will be only two or three rounds, but just make it five rounds or less."

Louis Tells All.

For this auspicious occasion Manager Julian Black of Chicago acted as interlocutor, with Louis and Co-Manager John Roxborough of Detroit as end men.

In this conference we learned what a clean living young fellow is Louis, picked by most critics as ultimate holder of the heavyweight crown. He does not smoke, drink liquor or coffee.

The interlocutor then asked, "Is it true, Joe, that you read the Bible before every fight?" It was. "What is your favorite verse," queried a greatly impressed scribe. "'An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth?"

Louis, who rarely smiles, caught the point, but said, "I don't pick any particular verse, but just read the Bible because it's good for me."

"How often do you go to the Baptist church?"

"I don't often go to church," replied the sepia battler, "but I do read the Bible, for I like it."

With that subject exhausted, we learned that Louis, since deserting the Golden Gloves amateur ranks a year ago, has fought professionally 22 times, scoring 18 knockouts. His hardest battle was his fourth, against Adolph Wiater, another Golden Glover who had turned pro, which went the limit at Marigold Garden.

Needs Special Gloves.

Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York boxing commission, appeared at this point in the proceedings, so Dr. Bier, at whose camp Louis is training, went for the stethoscope and other implements of his profession.

First stepping on the scales, Joe weighed an even 200 pounds, which is about the figure at which he expects to enter the ring against Carnera. His blood pressure was 120, over 80, whatever "over 80" means. Despite his hard mental exercises in the end chair, his pulse was 70. His return to normal after exercise was within one minute.

With Gen. Phelan present, it was explained Joe has unusually long thumbs which would require special gloves. Manager Black placed his hand beside that of Louis to prove the point. Black's thumb was nearly an inch shorter. Commissioner Phelan saw no objection to gloves to fit Louis' hands, just so they weighed the regulation six ounces, as do Carnera's gloves, which also must be specially fashioned.

Joe Knocks 'Em Out.

Louis' afternoon sparring drill consisted of six rounds against five different ebony-hued camp followers.

Lou [Tiger] Flowers, one time sparring partner of Carnera, was knocked out cold before the expiration of his three minutes. Seal Harris of Chicago, 245 pounds, was the only opponent to go more than one round and he quit with "That's enough" midway in the second session.

Louis was swinging a long right this afternoon, the first time this correspondent has seen him use it. It was somewhat similar to the roundhouse "day letter" punch which Baer used to upset Primo last year. Camp regulars say he has been developing this punch, in case of emergency, for about a week.

THREE MEN ON A MILE.

PRINCETON LAKES, N. J., June 16.—[Special.]—With three of the greatest mile runners in the world competing before them at Princeton Saturday, so great factors have time and new world record become that a majority of the 35,000 spectators were disappointed when Jack Lovelock beat Bill Bonthron and Glenn Cunningham in 4:11.2.

It was not because the New Zealander outfooted our two Yankee boys, for the Briton is popular from his previous victory at Princeton and was greeted with loud acclaim when Announcer Al Frazin, who also handled the loud speaker at the Braddock-Baer fight, introduced him. It was that all three runners had recorded better time in other appearances here. Cunningham holds the world record of 4:06.7. Lovelock ran in 4:07.6 two years ago when Bonthron was timed separately 4:08.7.

Two things operated against a new mark which many had expected, in fact, most of the experts. One was the broiling sun, which contestants had not encountered in training, and a wind not apparent in the stand which the runners breasted going up the back stretch. The other was a slow first quarter, run in 1:04.9.

Whatever chance Cunningham had of taking Lovelock probably faded in that first quarter, for the slender visitor from across, weighing only 135 pounds, running easily with arms close to body, always has a strong finish. The Kansan realized Glen Dawson's pace was too slow, took the lead, and stepped off the second quarter in 1:00.3, but apparently it took as much out of him as it did out of Lovelock, for he could not draw away, spent himself in the pacemaking rôle, to be passed by Lovelock's final sprint and then by Bonthron's revived rush at the end.

Lovelock, after the race, expressed himself satisfied with his oft-repeated nonchalant remark that time doesn't mean anything. It's winning that counts.

Joe McCluskey, former Fordhamite, now an insurance salesman, who succumbed to Ray Sears' final dash in the two mile, explained the wind by saying: "You didn't seem to feel it, but after going against it you just didn't have so much left."

Sissies? No, Sir.

The Wake had demonstration that students at our leading eastern colleges have not gone sissy, despite any prevalent impression to the contrary. Because taxis were lacking when we had finished our story, the president of the Princeton Press club offered to drive us in his flivver to the railroad station. On the way he stopped at his dormitory and returned with a bath towel. Answering our curious look, he said: "It's so hot I thought I'd take a swim before dinner, and the best place at this time of day is an old quarry about a mile out. I have another towel if you'd care to join us." Only imminent departure of our train prevented acceptance of such cordial hospitality.

JOYCE WETHERED CLIPS 8 STROKES OFF COURSE MARK

Baltimore, Md., June 16.—(AP)—Joyce Wethered, four times women's golf champion of England, teamed up with Johnny Dawson of Chicago in an exhibition match today, shot a 73, eight under the women's club record. Miss Wethered and Dawson finished even against Ralph Beach of Baltimore and Roland Mackenzie of Washington.

Miss Wethered finished two under women's par, had nothing higher than a 5 and got a birdie on the 13th. Dawson and Beach tied with 71—one over par—and Mackenzie took a 74.

GOGGIN COMES IN SECOND, FOUR STROKES BACK

Nelson's 296 Good for Third.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., June 16.—John Frank Revolta, Oshkosh's gift to golf, today won the 36th western open golf tournament at the South Bend Country club with a 72 hole score of 290, six strokes over par for the route.

The bushy-haired Revolta, who is now professional at the Tripoli Country club in Milwaukee, today collected compound interest on a deposit he made in the 1934 tournament last year when he dashed around the Country Club of Peoria yard in 277 strokes, a figure frugal enough to win almost any golf tournament. It wasn't enough, however, to overtake Harry Cooper and Ky Laffoon, and Johnny was no better than third.

Goggin Is Second.

Revolta's 290 today brought him $500 and custody of the J. K. Wadley trophy for the next year. He finished four strokes in front of the genial William Goggin of San Francisco, remembered as the boy whom only Gene Sarazen could keep from winning the 1933 P. G. A. title.

Willie not only took away $300 for second place, but also $150 offered by local tradesmen for the lowest 18 hole score of the entire tournament. Willie attended to this latter matter in the morning round with a 68, three under par, which placed him two strokes back of Johnny at the end of 54 holes. Willie made a valiant effort to catch Revolta in the afternoon, but one of the fitful showers which fell upon the Chain o' Lakes course saw him come up with a 75 for a 294.

The 294 was still good enough to bring Willie up to the clubhouse two strokes up on the 23 year old Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. J., who settled for a 74 and a 75 on today's rounds. Byron was alone in third place by two strokes, the closest to him being Dick Metz, the young Chicagoan from the Lasker course and Jimmy Thomson, the Babe Ruth of golf, who is considered as sulking off the tees if his drives don't go 270 yards. Metz, who was a stroke back of Revolta at thirty-six holes, took a 76 this morning and then came down with a final 77, including a disastrous stroke and distance penalty on the fourteenth. Thomson, on the other hand, boomed around in par 71 this afternoon to tie Dick at 298.

Four Shoot 299.

Next in line at 299 were Tommy Armour of Medinah, who dusted the day off with a 72; Harold McSpaden of Kansas City; Mark Fry of Los Angeles, and Bill Kaiser of Louisville. Alone at 300 was Ted Longworth, the long Portland pro, who, at the end of fifty-four holes, was only one stroke back of Revolta. Longworth, taking himself a 45 for the first nine, came in with an 82 this afternoon. Harry Cooper, the defending champion, finished with 301, taking a 78 on the final round.

Mr. Robert Harlow chuckled parental chuckles tonight as one of his six Japanese wards, Corny Nakamura, scampered off the seventy-second green with a 303, based on a par 71 in the third round.

Revolta, the new champion, is no apprentice in the winners' union, for his marcel has waved over a lot of fairways these last few years. Last winter Johnny collected $4,200 on the grapefruit circuit, finishing second only to Hank Picard.

Gets Out of Hay.

Last summer he shot a final round of 65 to tie Cooper and Laffoon in the St. Paul open, and then stopped both with a pair of 71s. He is a native of Oshkosh, married, and the father of a boy. He will be on deck, with most of the rest of this field, when the first annual Medinah open begins at Chicago on Friday morning.

Revolta's final round of 73 was all the more remarkable in view of the pressure of having Longworth and Goggin at his heels. The shot which probably won the tournament for Johnny came at the seventeenth, where he missed the green, his ball being barely visible in a clump of spinach. He took a sand iron and

ROMAN SOLDIER MARCHES ON TO AMERICAN DERBY

Fillies to Give Him Battle Saturday.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Make way for Roman Soldier—the conquering hero—who comes back to Chicago today with fresh spoils in his treasure chest and a stronger determination than ever to remove the scalp of Omaha, the heap big chief from the east.

He's coming back for the American Derby Saturday, but he will find no Chief Omaha around to worry him in this $25,000 battle. However, there are others he must conquer before he can claim this rich prize which would bring him well in the vicinity of Omaha when it comes to money earning ability.

Earnings Total $45,000.

In the Detroit Derby on Saturday Roman Soldier picked up $17,775. The spoils of his earlier battles this year amounted to $27,325, so in less than six months he has earned $45,100. These figures look a bit small when compared to the $106,930 earned by Omaha, yet if the $25,000 American Derby purse should be gathered in by Roman Soldier—he's going to be the favorite to win that race—it would put him easily within reach of Omaha's mark.

Fact is, if the Soldier then turned around and gave the Chief a kick in the pants in the $35,000 Classic stakes at Arlington they would be just about in a deadlock as far as money earned is concerned, and the 3 year old that earns most money is generally rated as the champion.

Battle with the Ladies.

Oddly enough, Roman Soldier's main opposition in the American Derby will come from the leading fillies of age, Nellie Flag, the 2 year old filly champion of last year; Black Helen, winner of the Coaching Club American Oaks this year, and her stable companion, Bloodroot, which demonstrated in a race at Washington Park on Saturday that she possibly is even a little better than Black Helen.

While it is expected that the American Derby field will be narrowed down to ten or a dozen by post time on Saturday afternoon, the list of probable starters at the beginning of Derby week today totals nineteen.

They are as follows:

The Foxcatcher farm's Rosemont, conqueror of Omaha in the Withers stakes, may be added to this list, although it was reported that he came out of the Belmont Stakes limping. His name, however, has since appeared on the "work" sheets, and it may be that he will be shipped west.

Modesty Wins No. 1.

This will be the twenty-seventh running of the American Derby, which, since its first running, in 1833, when it was won by the filly Modesty, has become one of the big institutions of American racing. Many famous names are enrolled in its list of winners, among them being Emperor of Norfolk, Spokane, Boundless, Pink Coat, The Picket, Highball, and in more recent seasons Boot to Boot, Hydromel, Toro, Windy City, Mate, and Cavalcade, which won last year.

A few of the Derby candidates will see action this afternoon in the Thomas purse at a mile, and other candidates will get their final tuning up in races tomorrow and Wednesday.

Lakes Near City Offer Fishermen Chance for Sport

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Fisherman, here are suggestions on a few lakes not very far from Chicago where one has a chance to pick up some bass or pickerel on a short trip. Although one cannot expect to find the same kind of pike, pickerel, or bass fishing very close to Chicago that can be had in the wilds of northern states or across the line in Canada, these lakes offer a pretty fair chance for some fun.

One place to go to work on bass is Lake Ripley, which is about 115 miles northwest of Chicago, just one mile from the town of Cambridge, Wis. The lake is rather small [about a mile long and a half mile wide], can be worked with a casting rod, and has fish in it.

There are cottages and boats for rent there, and there is a golf course close to the town, so one can get some golf in, too.

Another lake in this area is Rock lake, which is just a mile from the town of Lake Mills, Wis., and about eight miles northeast of Lake Ripley. This body of water is a little larger than Lake Ripley, being about a mile and a half long and a mile wide. It has produced some pretty good bass fishing at times. This lake also has pickerel and panfish.

On the way to Lake Ripley, if you go by automobile, you will pass by Lauderdale lake, which is on U. S. 12, just seven miles north of Elkhorn, Wis. This lake has 20 miles of shoreline, and has bass and panfish. There are camping places around the lake.

One of the "old standbys" in this area is Lake Koshkonong, which is three miles southwest of Fort Atkinson and two and a half miles northeast of Edgerton. This is one of the largest lakes in the southern part of Wisconsin, being seven miles long and about four miles wide.

There are various fish in this lake, including bass, pickerel, wall-eyed pike, and panfish. There are many cottages on the lake, and of course there are hotels in Fort Atkinson and Edgerton.

U. S. route 12 will take the Chicago motorist all the way to Fort Atkinson, which is approximately 105 miles northwest of the loop.

Alice Bridges Breaks Record in 110 Yard Swim

New York, June 16.—(AP)—Alice Bridges, Whitinsville, Mass., national backstroke champion, broke Eleanor Holm Jarrett's American record of six years' standing in winning the 110 yard backstroke race which featured a swimming meet held before a crowd of 10,000 in the oriental pool at Manhattan Beach today. Miss Bridges won the event by one yard from Erna Kompa, metropolitan titleholder in 1 minute 21 6-10 seconds. Eleanor Jarrett's record was 1 minute 22 2-10 seconds, set in San Francisco in August, 1939.

Golf Students Begin Final Week of Study

The third and final week of the free golf instruction sponsored by THE TRIBUNE in coöperation with the thirteen member courses of the Daily Fee association will begin tomorrow night. A crowd of more than 27,000 is expected to participate in the last two lessons of the school.

All pupils are requested to bring putters and mashies for the lessons tomorrow and Wednesday evening. The women and girls will have their classes tomorrow while male pupils will report on Wednesdays. Both groups will be back on Thursday and Friday evenings for the finale.

Work on Greens.

Work around the green will receive the major attention the first half of the week. Chip shots—the skilful use of which enables golfers to cut down putts—will be demonstrated. Following this, the pupils will get a lesson in accurate putting. The faculty regards this week as the crucial one in the development and improvement of the pupils' play. Failure to absorb this vital department of golf condemns the pupils to high scores.

The second half of the week will be devoted to review. All the previous lessons will be discussed and dissected. All misunderstandings and misconceptions will be cleared up through the medium of a question box wherein each pupil will be allowed to ask questions to his heart's content.

Newcomers Welcome.

While it is too late for newcomers to join the classes, the professionals in charge of instruction have issued a cordial invitation to golfers to attend the last two lessons. Many will be able to pick up a few tips.

Greenberg, Johnson Hit Home Runs.

Detroit, Mich., June 16.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers pounded two Philadelphia pitchers for 17 hits to triumph over the Athletics, 13 to 3. It was the third defeat for the A's in three games of the current series.

A feature of the game was the rivalry of Hank Greenberg and Bob Johnson for home run honors. The Philadelphia slugger slapped out his 16th of the season in the sixth, but the Tiger first sacker maintained the tie by slamming one over the wall in the eighth.

GIANTS HAMMER COLLINS TO WIN FROM CARDS, 7-3

New York, June 16.—(AP)—The Giants needed only one big inning, plus Carl Hubbell's ability to bear down in the pinches, to beat the Cardinals for the second time today, 7 to 3, and increase their lead over Pittsburgh to 5½ games.

The league leaders pounded Phil Collins for five runs in the first inning, and then coasted the rest of the distance.

Mel Ott's twelfth home run of the season, which broke his tie with Joe Moore for the league leadership, was the deciding wallop of the big opening rally. The drive came with two on base. Hank Leiber came up a moment later and hit the first of his two home runs.

FRENCH HURLS TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 16.—The Cubs and Dodgers will play the third game of their four game series tomorrow. Larry French is scheduled to pitch for the Cubs, and it will be Zachary or Earnshaw for the Dodgers.

It is said P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, has decided upon a hospitality plan which will enable players individually to learn how the other half lives. He will have a get acquainted session, including a dinner, with each of the players, according to the plan. He started with a dinner for Kiki Cuyler.

As reporters heard here of the rainstorm in Chicago, the injustice of the weather man was a subject of comment. The game here was played under perfect weather conditions before 7,562.

The spectators gave Al Lopez a heavy razz when he threw the ball into center field trying to head off Stan Hack's second theft of second base. The fans don't think Al is worth the $14,000 per annum which he is paid.

BILLY SUNDAY TO TAKE UP PITTS' CASE WITH LANDIS

Kansas City, Mo., June 16.—(AP)—Billy Sunday, the baseball player who turned evangelist, went to bat today for Alabama Pitts.

"That's an outrage to try to keep him out of organized baseball just because he did time at Sing Sing. Why two of the biggest executives I know once did time in prison.

"I'm going to write Judge Landis urging him to let Pitts play."

STOCKS CLIMB AS UNCERTAINTY ON NRA PASSES

Wall Street Feels More Cheerful.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 16.—[Special.]—The stock market continued to move at a lively pace last week as the last traces of nervousness over the demolition of the NRA were banished and the share market averages climbed to the highest level witnessed since February, 1934.

The week's rise in stocks was gradual but continuous. By Tuesday all of the 6 point decline which followed the Supreme court's decision ruling the New Deal unconstitutional had been made up and the upward movement which had been in progress since last March was carried further.

Sentiment Is Better.

Sentiment in the street among brokers and the speculative fraternity is said to be better than it has been in a long time. Traders are of the opinion that enough time has now passed to show that no widespread wage or price cutting will take place unless dictated by economic necessity. And, it is pointed out, industry now has the advantage of freedom of action minus the expense entailed by administering codes.

Business, according to observers, now has more factors working in its favor than has been the case since the New Deal began and the hurdles are said to be no higher than they were. The immediate danger of currency upsets abroad has passed, radical legislation looks less menacing to the street, and bonus action by congress appears to be dead for the present session.

Rail Interest Revives.

Probably the outstanding feature of the week was the revival of interest in the carrier section of the list. According to students of the market, the buying seems to have been inspired by hopes that several capital readjustments will be effected shortly, thus cleaning up uncertainties, larger crops this year are expected to bring better trafic on the western roads and carloadings currently are on the rise. The Supreme court ruling on the pension act is another argument advanced in favor of the rails.

According to the averages the market has gone up in twelve of the last thirteen sessions. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE index of fifty stocks on Saturday chalked up its eighth consecutive advance. This is the longest series of successive rises since the sharp upswing from Aug. 3 to Aug. 10, 1932.

Although brokers are expecting the market to widen out, thus far the advance has been highly selective. The investment favorites have been the strongest issues. Aside from them—the so-called "blue chips"—the stocks most sought last week were the food, chain store, rail, and railroad equipment issues. Many stocks, however, have failed to reflect the performance of the industrial averages which have advanced to the highest level since the latter part of 1931. Among the laggards are the coppers, gold mining shares, oils, rubbers, steels, and sugars.

DEARBORN GROUP ON FARM AID TO MEET HERE TODAY

A group of leaders in science, agriculture, and industry will meet at the Union League club this morning to discuss a permanent organization which will carry on the program formulated at a meeting held in Dearborn, Mich., early in May under the auspices of the Chemical foundation. The purpose of the organization is to provide help for American agriculture by finding new uses for farm products.

Henry Ford was one of 150 leaders who attended the Dearborn conference. Among the subjects discussed at that meeting were the new uses of the soy bean in industry, the use of alcohol made from grain for mixing with gasoline and new uses for forest products.

Among those who, it was announced, will attend the meeting here are: Fred W. Sargent, president of the North Western; C. V. Gregory, editor of the Prairie Farmer; Frank Knox, Chicago publisher; Roger Adams, president American Chemical society; W. B. Bell, president American Cyanamid company; William W. Buffum, president Chemical foundation; Howard E. Coffin, president Southeastern Cottons; D. Howard Doane, president American Society of Farm Managers; Dr. William J. Hale, noted chemist of Washington, D. C.; Charles H. Herty, director of the Pulp and Paper Laboratory, Savannah, Ga.; R. H. McCarroll, chief chemist Ford Motor company; Charles M. A. Stine, vice president E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.; and Louis J. Tabor, master of the National Grange.

Permanent headquarters of the organization is expected to be located at Dearborn. Carl B. Fritsche is to be managing director.

N. Y. CENTRAL HAS NO FATAL ACCIDENT IN '34

New York, June 16.—[Special.]—The New York Central railroad operated in 1934 without a passenger fatality resulting from train accidents, according to F. E. Williamson, president. This was the seventh consecutive year in which this result was obtained, bringing to a total of 35,000,000,000 the company's passenger miles operated without fatality. This is the equivalent of one passenger traveling safely for more than 80,000 years at 50 miles an hour.

The Indiana Harbor Belt railroad, a subsidiary of the New York Central, has been declared the winner of the national safety council's group a reward for switching and terminal companies utilizing 1,500,000 man hours in 1934. The company had a casualty rating of 4.27 for every 1,000,000 man hours of employment.

Paris Banker Credits U. S. for Franc Aid

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BASLE, Switzerland, June 16.—The United States treasury played the decisive rôle in saving the franc in the recent crisis, Jean Tannery, governor of the Bank of France, disclosed here today at the monthly meeting at the World bank of the governors of Europe's central banks.

M. Tannery paid a special personal tribute to Secretary Morgenthau's "broad understanding of the situation" which enabled the French to keep the exchange rate from getting out of hand, as it seemed likely to do on May 31, because of the Bank of France's difficulty, despite its gold, in getting enough dollars to meet the demands.

U. S. Treasury Steps In.

M. Tannery declared that at this juncture in the crisis, in which, he said, France lost nearly 10 billion francs' worth of gold, half to the United States, the United States treasury stepped in with its tremendous resources and "constantly supplied the market with dollars."

The fact that the United States by thus intervening to allow the smooth working of the gold standard and to prevent devaluation of the franc—which is to say of the gold bloc currencies—made, there is good reason to believe, a tremendous and favorable impression on the bank governors, who were aware of the incalculable consequences of such a monetary upset.

There had been rumors that Washington had coöperated with France in this crisis, but even the bank governors, it is understood, showed surprise at learning the degree of support Washington had given, the like of which they had not seen since 1931. They were obviously happy when they left the bank; in fact, such cheerful faces have not been seen here in years. The American move is regarded as a major development in American policy and one greatly encouraging the gold bloc and accepted by others as making for de facto stabilization.

Statement Is Issued.

The American rôle in the crisis of the franc became public when the Bank of France issued a communique this evening after the meeting saying that M. Tannery had explained the crisis to the governors and gave a summary of his statement containing prominently this passage:

"M. Tannery brought out the importance of the aid that had been given by the American treasury which, thanks to Secretary Morgenthau's broad understanding of the situation, constantly supplied the market with dollars to prevent the dangerous consequences of any cessation in gold purchases."

U. S. Refuses Comment.

Washington, D. C., June 16.—(AP)—Treasury officials flatly refused comment tonight on reports from Basel, Switzerland, crediting Secretary Morgenthau with aiding France in halting the recent speculative raid on the franc. Morgenthau himself was not available, but spokesmen, in reply to inquiries, would only repeat the treasury's unbroken guard of secrecy about all operations of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund.

NRA Bars U.S. Competition for Argentine Warship

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, June 16.—American shipbuilders were unable to tender bids for construction of a new training ship by the Argentine navy "because NRA exigencies render competition with European yards impossible," according to an announcement today by the ministry of marine. Bids from three British and three Italian yards had been received when the lists were closed last night.

WHEAT VALUES WILL BE FIXED BY SPRING CROP

Prices Decline with Better Prospect.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The value of wheat in the United States during the coming year hinges to a great extent on the development of the spring crop in the northwestern states during the next six weeks. What factors, favorable or adverse, may appear are still undetermined. Unless all precedent is upset there will be crop scares, mild ones at least.

As a barometer of crop prospects the Chicago market has accurately registered the improving outlook of the last two months. All factors considered, the outlook for spring crops is the best this season that it has been for several years. Wheat in Chicago today is the cheapest since trading began in the current future contracts. The winter crop will not measure up to what is regarded as a normal yield, but it has progressed steadily since the drouth was broken.

Spring Wheat at Critical Period.

The critical growing stage of the winter crop is passing and the spring crop is now entering the period which will determine its success or failure. The trade is still awaiting new figures on the estimated production of winter wheat. The last official government appraisal fixed the probable return at 441 million bushels. Some competent statisticians, however, believe the government figures did not fully reflect improvement that took place during May, which the government reckoned at approximately 9 million bushels.

Meanwhile, conditions surrounding the spring crop are as nearly perfect as one may expect to see in June.

June Estimates Only Indicators.

June estimates are at best only indicators and are subject to revision. It has been pointed out that a variation of 1 bushel per acre on 50 million acres of wheat would mean a variation of 50 million bushels in the final harvest. As matters now stand the country promises to raise a surplus of upwards of 100 million bushels, for which it will need foreign outlets.

A decisive change in the price trend in wheat appears unlikely unless there is a material change in prospects. Last week's decline was interrupted by a moderate rally on Friday, but when the week ended wheat was bringing nearly 5 cents a bushel less than during the preceding week. Other grains followed wheat, but the corn market retreated stubbornly and closed with comparatively small losses.

PRESIDENT OF CREDIT GROUP SEES WORST OF DEPRESSION OVER

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 16.—(AP)—Fred Roth, president of the National Association of Credit Men, which opens its 40th annual convention here tomorrow, says he believes the worst of the depression is past.

Prominent among the vanguard of more than 2,000 delegates whose business it is to keep a close check on the nation's business pulse, Roth declared:

"The continually improving failure record is the clearest indication of our rise from the depression depths. Our charts show definitly that in past depressions where this line steadily goes upward recovery is at hand."

Improved agricultural prices have transmitted themselves into better business conditions in rural districts, Roth said, with agricultural states showing a revival in purchasing power despite drouth and dust storms. The credit expert also contended that the recent Supreme court decisions on the NRA will have the "beneficial effects of a sounder approach" to recovery.

The convention opens tomorrow afternoon and continues until Friday. Outstanding among the speakers will be Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board; Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation; A. W. Robertson, chairman of Westinghouse Electric, and Hatton W. Sumners, house judiciary committee chairman.

CHICAGO TRADE GROUP TO FIGHT PAY FIXING BILL

Representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce will appear at Springfield tomorrow to fight passage in the house of senate bill 119, which would give the state power to fix wages for women and minors in Illinois.

The trade body contends the bill would put into effect some of the rules thrown into the discard with the Supreme court decision against NRA.

Other pending legislation which the group will oppose includes senate bill 586, giving authority to license factories and workshops, the six day week bill, the women's 8 hour bill, and the child labor bill raising minimum ages at which minors can work from 14 to 16 years.

U. S. to Hear Howell Corn Charges Today

Washington, D. C., June 16.—(AP)—Government charges that Thomas M. Howell "cornered" the corn market in the summer of 1931 in violation of the grain futures act today were brought to the capital for oral arguments before the grain futures administration.

Howell, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, denied the charges and any violation of law in hearings held at Chicago in January.

Tomorrow both the government and Howell will make oral arguments before the grain futures commission—Attorney General Cummings and Secretaries Wallace and Roper. Afterward the commission will take the case under advisement.

Wallace's complaint against Howell alleged that he traded through a group of friends and relatives to avoid violation of an agreement between the board of trade and the grain futures administration; whereby the administration agreed to notify the board when a member reported open contracts in any one future of any one grain equal to, or in excess of, 5,000,000 bushels.

Howell, through relatives and friends, the complaint alleged, kept individual purchases below 5,000,000 bushels. But it contended that on June 27, 1931, the "Howell group" had contracts in July corn of 8,310,000 bushels.

ADVENT OF SUMMER WEATHER BRINGS RISE IN CHICAGO'S TRADE

The advent of summer weather in Chicago last week brought a marked upturn in business, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. The first signs of sustained high temperatures was followed by substantial gain in sales of hot weather merchandise in both retail and wholesale fields.

The turnover in cottons, light weight clothing and millinery was much better along State street. Wholesalers again were called on for good sized commitments from points throughout the middle west and northwest. Mail order houses also indicated satisfactory volume.

In most cases industries in the metropolitan area maintained previous levels in employment and output. While a lull appears imminent, sentiment indicates it will be smaller than usual and should be followed with another pickup as soon as congress adjourns.

Railroads reported a fair volume in both freight and passenger trafic. Public utilities are holding even and are slightly ahead of levels prevailing at this time last year.

Suit Against TVA Opens in Atlanta Today

Atlanta, June 16.—(AP)—Legal groundwork for a United States Supreme court review of the constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley authority has been laid.

It was disclosed tonight, on the eve of a TVA test case before the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals sitting here, that Burney Johnston, attorney for preferred stock holders of the Alabama Power company, had filed a brief covering grounds to carry the case to the nation's highest court.

Hits at Injunction.

The TVA, through an appeal from the decision of Federal Circuit Judge W. I. Grubb at Birmingham, is seeking to overthrow the injunction which Judge Grubb granted restraining the authority and the Alabama Power company from contracting to deliver to the TVA certain Utility properties in north Alabama.

Johnston's brief claims Judge Grubb's decision did not go far enough and asks for a "declaratory decree" holding the TVA can not:

1. Engage in power business in competition with the Alabama Power company.

Power Line Competition.

2. Operate transmission lines in competition with the power company.
3. Manufacture and sell electricity in competition with the power company.
4. Promote a program of public ownership of utilities.
5. Contract with municipalities for the sale of power.
6. Use the Tennessee river for manufacture of power.

HASTINGS HOLDS UTILITY ACT WILL NOT GO IN EFFECT

Washington, D. C., June 16.—(AP)—Asserting that "under the present conditions, the Supreme court is the hope of America," Senator Hastings (Rep., Del.), predicted tonight the utility holding company bill "will not become effective."

"We have had demonstrated within the last three weeks," the prominent Republican said in a radio address, "that one branch of our government, namely the judiciary, remains untarnished by new theories of government and unafraid to declare them unconstitutional."

The bill to abolish "unnecessary" holding companies, Hastings added, "emphasizes the determination of the administration to own or dominate public utilities." He described as "nothing less than silly" President Roosevelt's recent fireside chat in which the senator said the President described the bill as a recovery measure which would not destroy values.

The only explanation Hasting said he could offer for the President's insistence on the bill was his attempt "to carry out the 1924 platform of the Progressive party."

STEEL OUTPUT SHOWS NORMAL SUMMER SLIDE

Current Rate of 39% Lowest of Year.

Activity in the iron and steel market is following a normal course and subsiding gradually, the operating rate declining 2 points to 39 per cent last week, the lowest level of the year, the magazine Steel says.

The year so far has shown a much less gain over the corresponding period of last year than was shown in 1934 over 1933, the journal points out, although steel production for the period is about 55 per cent of the all-time peak in the first six months of 1929. At present the industry is relying almost entirely upon small, miscellaneous orders, which are showing an unusually good volume and acting as a cushion against a sharp decline.

Autumn Upturn Expected.

"Despite the drab appearance of the market," the review says, "the very lack of large scale buying, coupled with certain definite requirements just ahead, is inspiring steel makers to confidence in a vigorous fall upturn. With the early introduction of new automobile models and the release of government funds for public works, they expect a definit upward trend by August."

"From now on automobile production will be keyed closely to retail sales," the journal continues, "with a succession of relatively small iron and steel purchases through the remainder of June and in July. The industry looks for a reasonably good summer season."

Automobile assemblies last week increased 3,300 units to 91,000 for the week. Structural shape awards showed little change at 6,240 tons.

Canadian Roads Order Rails.

Most of the railroad buying was done in Canada, according to the review. The Canadian National ordered 80,000 tons of rails and the Canadian Pacific 7,000 tons. The Wheeling and Lake Erie purchased 1,100 tons.

Operating plants in eastern Pennsylvania last week reversed the trend of most other centers by showing a gain of one-half point to 30 per cent of productive capacity. In Chicago the rate dropped 2 points to 41 per cent, at Birmingham 22 points to 30½ per cent, Cleveland 3 points to 51 per cent, Youngstown 8 points to 42 per cent, and Buffalo 2 points to 35 per cent. The rate in other districts was unchanged.

UTILITIES TAKE STEPS TO REVISE CAPITAL SETUPS

Anticipate Provisions of Federal Measure.

The simplification of utility company capital structures which the pending Wheeler-Rayburn bill would make mandatory has been anticipated by the managements of several leading concerns.

Elimination of intermediate holding companies required under the Borah amendment approved by the senate has long been sought by companies whose capital structure have become involved through acquisitions.

It has been difficult to do away with such intermediate units because of underlying liens, heavy taxes on surplus transfers and various legal stumbling blocks. Consolidated Gas of New York is one of the firms which has been working on plans for some time for simplification of its capital setup.

Chicago Concerns Simplify.

When the present management took charge of the Commonwealth Edison company and the Public Service company of Northern Illinois a systematic program was started to dispose of miscellaneous properties which were not essential to the business.

Under the Insull management both companies had become interested in promotions unrelated to the main business. It was impossible to dispose of these properties at once. The Edison company, through the Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation, still holds a substantial interest in the Midland United company, which in turn is a holding company and has other intermediate concerns beneath it. With assets of such doubtful value immediate sale was out of the question. The best that could be done was retain the holdings in hope of some future salvage.

Opposition to Bill Strong.

Utility companies, particularly those directly affected by the provision against holding companies, have been loathe to discuss the ultimate effects of the bill. The length of time which the bill has been in the hands of the house committee shows the degree of opposition which some of the drastic features of the measure has aroused.

The eventual adoption of the measure is anticipated by most utility interests but they are still hopeful that the house will modify the "death sentence" for holding companies.

The constitutionality of the bill is considered doubtful by some utility executives. This viewpoint is not accepted generally by utility people who believe that the law will be upheld. A quick test, however, is likely to be pushed by the concerns which are the hardest hit.

A. Stein & Co.

Investors' Guide: I would like to have your opinion on stock of A. Stein & Co.—H. J. S.

Answer: A. Stein & Co. manufactures "Paris" garters and other accessories for men, as well as a miscellaneous line of rubber sundries and products with elastic webbing. Its main plant is in Chicago and a branch is in Toronto.

Sales are not reported. In 1934 the company earned $338,000, or $1.04 per common share, against net of $281,000, or 79 cents per common share, for 1933. Loss in 1932 was $76,000, against net income of $528,000 for 1931.

Current assets on Dec. 31, 1934, including cash assets of almost $1,500,000, totaled $2,933,000 and current liabilities were $290,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 13,288 shares of 6½ per cent cumulative $100 par preferred and 240,000 shares of no par common. Dividends have been paid regularly on the preferred and on the common, except during 1933, when no common dividends were paid. The stock now pays 25 cents a quarter. It is medium grade. The preferred deserves a fairly good rating.

Flint Motor.

Investors' Guide: As administrator of my sister's estate I am holding eight shares of stock in Flint Motor company. Is this of any value? Thank you for any information.—Z. C. J.

Answer: Flint Motor company was established in 1922. It built a large factory at Flint, Mich., in anticipation of huge demand. Distributors, however, were unable to make many sales. The company thereupon established its own chain of outlets. This involved a large sum of money and entailed enormous losses. All this time the excessive plant was eating up large sums of money—overhead was very large.

The plant was sold at a substantial loss. Working capital soon disappeared. Without funds the company was unable to redesign its product and the model in production was unsuccessful. Operations were discontinued and liquidation effected. Proceeds from sale of assets were insufficient to take care of liabilities.

We, therefore, regard the stock as worthless.

Miscellaneous.

MAN TO MAN, HERE IS A SENSATIONAL SUMMER BUSINESS.

A new idea in line with a giant industry in the making which will mean a $5,000,000,000 industry in America. It is an electrical unit that lends itself to a wonderful presentation with a large corporation in back of it and the greatest sales program that has ever been put in a salesman's hands; that will meet conditions as they are today with very liberal compensation to our dealers. This NOVENTOR is in Chicago just a short time, and when you see the evidence of cash commission being paid to our representatives you will be amazed. FOR EXAMPLE—R. C. BLACK drew over $1,000 for the first 4 weeks. A brand-new man with no selling experience J. CERNY, earned his first 3 weeks in this business $336.00 and has averaged $26 a day for his first 60 days in this business. Another man, F. SCUYER, was paid $1,501.00 for 4 weeks.

Ordinarily a proposition as big as this would require the purchase of expensive equipment. But our manufacturing process has been so simplified that we can furnish you with everything you need to start you off making money the very first day—with no investment on your part whatsoever.

Absolutely no experience is required to quickly become successful in this fascinating business. We train you, tell you how to start—how to establish yourself quickly—how to operate the business in the very first day you are ready to go. We furnish all necessary plans, systems and equipment. Any man with ordinary intelligence and a real desire to succeed is bound to make money.

Another feature that makes this business unlike any other is that it can be operated anywhere. You can establish yourself practically over night and start enjoying an independent income at once.

This is NOT AN ORDINARY JOB and may be your opportunity. Come prepared to stay all afternoon for complete investigation. All men who are aggressive and willing workers apply on Monday, 11 and 2:30.
Room 1009, 75 E. Wacker-dr.

MEN

WE NEED MEN IN CHICAGO BUT CAN'T USE MEN INTERESTED IN EARNING INCOME. WE ARE NOT INTERESTED IN MEN WHO DO NOT ANSWER ADS, YET INSIST ON A JOB THAT PAYS THEM AT LEAST COME IN EXCESS OF $40 A WEEK.

You will investigate new ideas, new products, patented, as important as pasteurizing of milk, cellophane, filtering of water—offering a permanent and profitable connection for years to come.

Electrical units, air conditioning units, and concealed heating are some of our products.

We will establish the men selected in a BUSINESS OF THEIR OWN, finance their accounts, contain merchandise, pay the rent, light, heat, stenographer, etc.; place them where the business is and pay them weekly without one cent investment on their part. The second total cash comm. of two men, Reid and Hill, for four weeks was $1,785.87, or an average for a week for each man of $223.20.

This large corporation operates all over the world and is preparing to expand. WE NEED 6 GOOD MEN, but they must be hard workers, sincere, and have good references. The appeal of one of our products is so powerful—beyond your belief—sells itself.

APPLY MONDAY ONLY.

HOW CAN YOUR FAMILY BE HAPPY WITHOUT MONEY EACH MONTH?

I want to talk to 10 neat appearing married men who, like myself, were thrown out of a job through no fault of their own, and have been searching in vain for some sort of job where at least a living could be made.

No has-beens—just honest men willing to work 8 hours a day.

An opportunity was given to me last July to prove my worth with this company showing their electric product. It was entirely foreign to me then, as it will be to you now. If you can sell yourself to me and live North or Northwest, and if I can show you and prove to you that you can make $35 to $50 the very first week on a special comm. basis, would you be interested? O. K. I Make me prove it! Come prepared to go into details. It will take about 1 hour.

M. J. Lanahan Says:

"I cannot afford to risk a personal and business reputation, built up over a period of more than 30 years, by selling anything but the Best Used Cars."

A Personal Guarantee

Regardless of year, price or model, a Used Car advertised by my company must be a good, serviceable automobile, able to back up every claim we make for it.

We have cars at every price and for every purpose—some admittedly better than others, but each one ready to fill a particular need and fill it well.

Whether you want a very low priced car for ordinary service or whether you want a late 1934 model that can be put to the most severe driving tests—we have it.

We Can't Sell ALL the Used Cars, so We Only Sell the Best of Them!
